FOR RELEASE

May 5, 1970

Ron A. Hoffman, currently Assistant Purchasing Agent for the University of Washington, has been appointed Director of Business Services for The Evergreen State College, it was announced today by Vice President for Business Dean E. Clabaugh. The appointment is effective July 13.

Hoffman's responsibilities at Evergreen will include administration of purchasing operations and such related business services as transportation, receiving, storage, duplicating and mail and messenger service, Clabaugh said.

After attending classes at North Park College in Chicago, Loyola University in Chicago and DePauw University in Greencastle, Indiana, Hoffman received a bachelor of science degree in marketing and business from Bradley University in 1963. He also has taken special courses of study in business, public relations and purchasing management at the University of Washington and Seattle Community College.

Following graduation from Bradley University, Hoffman became Base Procurement Officer at Paine Field, Washington, holding that position until moving to the University of Washington as Assistant Purchasing Agent in 1967.

Hoffman is a member of the National Association of Purchasing Management; the Purchasing Management Association of Washington; and National Association of Educational Buyers.

He and his wife, Penny, are the parents of two children: Wendy, 3½; and Holt, 11 months.
