The central issues of the women's movement will be addressed in the first 1973-74 Eye-5 presentation at The Evergreen State College October 8 at 8 p.m. in Lecture Hall Three.

Presented by The Co-Respondents, an Olympia women's theater group, the program is entitled "Fun and Games," and addresses the subject of women and marriage, dreams of courtship, effects of roles, and loss of illusions.

Members of the group include Patricia Larson and Sandra Nisbet, both actresses and teachers; and guitarist/vocalist Denise Livingston, recent graduate of Evergreen.

The 45-minute program, which is free and open to the public, contains excerpts adapted from Charlotte Perkins Gilman, George Bernard Shaw, John Stuart Mill, Geoffrey Chaucer, Maxwell Anderson and others, as well as four songs composed by Ms. Livingston.
