FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
September 26, 1973

Registration for part-time studies programs at The Evergreen State College is scheduled for 4 to 8 p.m., October 2 in the college Admissions Office.

Eight modular courses will be available during Fall Quarter to part-time and special students, according to Academic Dean Charles Teske. Registration fees for persons interested in earning credit are $80 per module. Special students --- those not wanting formal evaluation or credit --- may enroll in the programs for $20. Interested persons should contact the Office of Admission (866-6180) or the modular course instructors for additional information.

Modular offerings include: Probability and Introduction to Statistics, taught by Faculty Member George Dimitroff; Introduction to Urban Planning, by Faculty Member Carolyn Dobbs; The Soviet Union Today, by Faculty Member Andrew Hanfman; Studies in U. S. History: Idealistic Nightmare, by Faculty Member David Hitchens; Introductory Chemistry, by Faculty Member Paul E. Jacobson; Observations in Daily Life, by Faculty Member Earle McNeil; Introduction to Genetics, by Faculty Member Willie Parsons; and Approaches to Shakespeare, by Academic Dean Charles Teske.
