...STUDENTS HELPING PREPARE NORTH BONNEVILLE FOR MOVE...Moving the town of North Bonneville --- and its population of 470 --- will be the task of the Army Corps of Engineers. But helping the town plan the move, including everything from street lights to sewers and site selection to sidewalks will be the responsibility of more than a dozen Evergreen students enrolled in the Urban Planning Group Contract. Working under the direction of Faculty Member Russell Fox, the students begin work in the Columbia River town today (Feb. 5). The town, some 40 miles east of Vancouver, Wash., is the site of the second Bonneville powerhouse, so its citizens faced two choices: to drift away individually or to move collectively and preserve their town's identity. They opted for the latter but, before the move can be made, they have to come up with a complete comprehensive plan and a new site. Evergreeners will be helping them examine potential sites, prepare site design alternatives, conduct economic base studies and, in the end, design an entirely new city.

...INTERNS WORKING WITH STATE COMMUNITY COLLEGE BOARD...Two Evergreen interns will soon be helping the State Board for Community College Education develop ways of utilizing the computer in innovative educational programs. Their job will be to "develop a systematic means for bringing the computer to the aid of the community college teacher," according to Ken Donohue, director of Evergreen's Office of Cooperative Education. The internship program, which will employ two students on six-month rotating assignments, is the first developed between Evergreen and the State Board.

...NATIONAL DEBATE TOURNAMENT SLATED AT TESC MARCH 8-10...Invitations were mailed last week to about 400 colleges and universities throughout the United States for participation in the First Annual Evergreener, a forensics tournament to be held on campus Mar. 8-10. Highlight of the three-day affair will be an all-day symposium on Comprehensive Medical Care, which is the national debate topic this year. Experts from across the nation will discuss their proposals and share their expertise in lectures, workshops and informal discussions with college debaters, who will spend two days competing in oratory, oral interpretation, expository and extemporaneous events.

...ECCO SLATES LUNCHEON FEB. 14...The Evergreen College Community Organization will host an all-membership luncheon Feb. 14 at 12:30 in Room 110 of the College Activities Building. Provost Ed Kormondy is program chairman for the event, which is open to all persons belonging to or interested in joining, the college service club. Reservations may be made by calling Charlotte Smith, 943-4347, Merlyne Brown, 943-3884, or Estelle Ornstein, 943-0696. The luncheon costs $2.75 per person.

...OFF-CAMPUS FIELD SUPERVISORS TO ATTEND WORKSHOP...More than 250 off-campus field supervisors of Evergreen student interns have been invited to attend a half-day workshop on campus Feb. 16. Sponsored by the Office of Cooperative Education, the session will introduce supervisors from governmental agencies and local businesses to Evergreen faculty members and others involved in the Co-op program. City Supervisor Eldon Marshall will serve as guest speaker for the meeting, which is primarily aimed at acquainting supervisors with the educational objectives and teaching methodology of both the college and the internship program.

...INFORMATION ON EXPO SOUGHT...Mardea Erwin, a student in the Futures Group Contract, is conducting research on Expo 74, the Spokane World's Fair, and needs help collecting information. "We're trying to get copies of all articles published on Expo --- and any other pertinent information," she said. "Anyone willing to share this kind of data can send it to Faculty Member Lynn Patterson, Futures Project, The Evergreen State College.
