Months of collaboration among dancers, musicians and filmmakers will culminate in three nights of entertainment May 13, 14 and 15 at The Evergreen State College when students and faculty in the Live and Recorded Coordinated Studies program offer their "Multi-Media Concert."

Slated to begin at 8 o'clock each evening in the main lobby of the Evans Library Building, the performances will feature presentation of seven modern dance works, four choreographed by Faculty Member Pam Schick and three by Evergreen students.

Original music --- some composed by Evergreen Faculty Musician Greg Steinke --- will accompany the dancers, along with a variety of film and slide/tape productions, all original work by Evergreen students under the direction of Faculty Members Robert Barnard and Sid White.

The evening program will present a broad perspective of modern dance, according to Ms. Schick. "We'll cover the spectrum from very elaborate, theatrical combinations of music, dance and film to very simple, informal, improvisational dance."

Admission to the evening productions is $2 for the general public, $1 for students.
