Native Americans from throughout the lower Puget Sound area have been invited to a Christmas potluck party at The Evergreen State College December 20 beginning at 3:30 p.m. in room 110 of the College Activities Building.

The afternoon potluck, designed for Native Americans of all ages, is sponsored by the newly established Olympia Indian Center and the Evergreen Native American Student Alliance (NASA). It's designed, according to NASA student Sally Fixico "to draw members of the American Indian community together and to provide a good time for everyone."

Legends, folklore, coastal Indian games, a small pow-wow, films and a Native American Santa will be on hand for the afternoon event. Swimming will also be available in the Evergreen Recreation Center pool.

For additional information, interested persons are invited to contact NASA at Evergreen (866-6034) or Jackie Delahunt at 943-4214.
