

Twenty First Annual Commencement Ceremonies

1992

The Evergreen State College

The 1992 Graduating Class chose to have the Redstone Drum,
a group of American Indian drummers and singers,
perform the processional song
for today's ceremony.

*The Drum is under the care of Mac Silverhorn. He will be assisted by John Donovan, Roger Jackson, Ryan Silverhorn
Jim Young and Joey Young.*

The Drum's voice,
Deep and resonantly beautiful,
Renews our memory as sacred beings
Reminding us of our shared journey on Earth, Our Mother.

Today we will combine our songs and hearts
With the Thunder voice of the Drum
Sending our prayers out
Asking our Creator to bless our ceremony and our future endeavors.

Guest Speaker John Taylor Gatto

"In 26 years of teaching rich kids and poor I almost never met a 'learning disabled' child; hardly ever met a 'gifted and talented' one either. Like all school categories, these are sacred myths, created by the human imagination. They derive from questionable values we never examine because they preserve the temple of schooling.

"That's the secret behind short-answer tests, bells, uniform time blocks, age grading, standardization, and all the rest of the school religion punishing our nation.

"There isn't a right way to become educated; there are as many ways as fingerprints...

"How much more evidence is necessary? Good schools don't need more money or a longer year; they need real free-market choices, variety that speaks to every need and runs risks. We don't need a national curriculum, or national testing either. Both initiatives arise from ignorance of how people learn, or deliberate indifference to it."

—John Gatto's resignation announcement,
The Wall Street Journal

John Taylor Gatto, a public school teacher for 26 years who was named New York State Teacher of the Year in 1991 and on three occasions the New York City Teacher of the Year, quit his job last summer after realizing that, in his words, "I teach how to fit into a world I don't want to live in."

Gatto is the author of Dumbing Us Down: The Hidden Curriculum of Compulsory Schooling and producer of the Carnegie Hall evening "The Exhausted School." He frequently lectures around the country on school reform and has appeared before audiences as diverse as NASA Goddard Space Center's engineering staff, the financial board of United Technologies Corporation, Columbia University's Forum on Innovation, and the Nashville Institute of the Arts. His teaching was the subject of a full-length documentary film entitled "Classrooms of the Heart," and he is currently the subject of a film in progress, "Gatto the Teacher."

Gatto believes the way we school children in the United States is pathological, and is a message about what has gone wrong in the world outside our schools. We lack trust in children, moving them aimlessly from room to room and stranger to stranger, never allowing them to finish what they start, never allowing them a minute free from constant surveillance and ranking. According to Gatto, this form of schooling produces indifference, self-hatred, cruelty, shallowness, dishonesty, materialism, dependency, depersonalization, and a rejection of intimacy.

The Evergreen State College Ceremonial Mace

Originally a weapon of offense used in medieval warfare by a king or a great noble, the mace has been refined into a symbolic device used on ceremonial occasions. As an academic device, the mace goes back to 16th century England when Queen Elizabeth I presented a replica of her own royal mace to the corporation of the University of Oxford in 1589. She ordered that it be used in all ceremonies to represent the royal presence and the authority granted to the university to issue degrees under the royal insignia. King Charles I made a similar gift to Cambridge University in 1625. Since that time, it has become increasingly the custom for European, and now American, colleges and universities to use ceremonial maces during graduation exercises.

The Evergreen State College ceremonial mace was carried at the head of the commencement procession for the first time during the 1982 graduation. The mace is rich in symbolism. Beginning with a square core of Eastern Maple, narrow strips of laminated maple and walnut are attached to the core in a cross design. At the open corners, bubinga, a wood red in color and rich in grain, is inserted. The resulting three-foot column was lathed round and represents the tree of life. Nine grooves inlaid with copper denote the nine levels of life from animal spirit to enlightenment. The copper bands suggest the bonding of forces of life.

The cap of the Mace was turned from a single block of locally grown black walnut. The shape is suggestive of a crown and represents the principal integration of knowledge and experience. To remind us that such an integration is a carefully balanced blend of diverse aspects of human nature, four circles are inlaid symbolizing the four major ways of experiencing the world: thinking, feeling, intuiting and sensing, and the four main characteristics of the human mind: wisdom, innocence, introspection and illumination.

Incorporated into this crown is a unique feature: the center is hollow and has in it a sealed vial. It is intended that each year, remembrances from the graduation ceremony will be microfilmed and placed in the vial. These remembrances will also be available in paper form through the Alumni Office and the College Library. The intention is that the mace is part of a living event that connects us to our past, demonstrates our belief and faith in our future and maintains a connection between the two.

The Evergreen State College Mace is a gift of former Academic Vice President and Provost, the late Byron Youtz, who donated the materials, and faculty member, Earle McNeil, who gave his time and talent to its creation.

Candidates are listed alphabetically by degree and date of anticipated completion. Although this is not a final list of all candidates for this commencement, this program presents as complete and accurate a record of candidates as was possible at the time of publication. Award of degrees is determined by the Office of Registration and Records.

Omnia Extares

1. Go, Geoducs go,
Through the mud and the sand, let's go.
Siphon high, squirt it out,
swivel all about,
let it all hang out.

2. Go, Geoducs go,
Stretch your neck when the tide is low.
Siphon high, squirt it out,
swivel all about,
let it all hang out.
