The Evergreen State College Office of Cooperative Education has invited 90 field supervisors to attend a half-day workshop on campus from 1 to 5 p.m. November 30.

The field supervisors--all employees of private businesses as well as educational, social, governmental agencies--oversee the activities of more than 100 Evergreen students who are earning academic credit for their internships in a wide variety of fields.

Topic for the half day program is "What Makes a Good Internship." Supervisors will discuss how to evaluate the work of interns and how to use the community as a learning resource.
