

Media Blitz Hits Evergreen

Mari Womack of the Voice of America radio program interviews Pete Steilberg, assistant athletic director and cross country coach.

While newspapers across the Northwest picked up the wire story about Evergreen's selection as one of the "10 Best," reporters and photographers from the Seattle Times, Tacoma News Tribune and the Everett Daily Herald came down to see for themselves. Here, Seattle Times feature writer Geoff Cowley interviews Evergreen Information Specialist Keith Eisner

"Hidden Gem" Shines Again

On Sunday morning, September 23, Americans from Nome to New Orleans read in the nationally-distributed Sunday supplement, Parade magazine, that The Evergreen State College had been selected as one of "The 10 Best-Kept Secrets Among American Colleges." In the wake of the article, which was written by Lisa Birnbach (author of The Official Preppy Handbook) to promote her new work, Lisa Birnbach's College Book, Evergreeners have been interviewed, photographed, filmed and taped by regional and national media. Proclaimed in Seventeen magazine along with a handful of other colleges to be a "hidden gem" in higher education two years ago, and tabbed as the best regional liberal arts college in the West and Midwest by U.S. News and World Report only last fall, Evergreen's secret is neither hidden or best-kept any more. Some highlights of this fall's media barrage are found on this page.

"Evergreen es una de las diez mejores universidades en los Estados Unidos."

"The Evergreen State College ist eine der besten universitäten in den Vereinigten Staaten."

"The Evergreen State College est une de meilleures universités aux Etats Unis."

All these words translate into the same good news—"Evergreen is one of the ten-best colleges in America."—but that news is now being spread further than it ever has before thanks to a September visit by Voice of America reporter Mari Womack. A federally-sponsored radio program, VOA is heard around the world (primarily in China, South America, Eastern Europe and Africa) and broadcast in more than 40 languages. Womack, who works out of Los Angeles, was planning a Northwest swing when her boss urged her to "check out this really neat college up there." Her boss, in turn, had been called by VOA's Washington D.C. headquarters to produce a feature on Evergreen as soon as possible. VOA reports their shortwave broadcasts have more than 100 million listeners a week and Womack, who was delighted with the quality of her interviews of Evergreen Students and faculty, predicts the feature will be played often.

"Here it is: the public school that is masquerading as a private one," begins Lisa Birnbach's section on Evergreen in the Parade magazine article. She goes on at greater length about Geoduck U. in Lisa Birnbach's College Book, her analyses of 186 out of the approximately 3,000 colleges and universities in the nation. Out of the ten colleges Birnbach chose, Evergreen is the only public institution and the only one in the Northwest. With estimated expenses of $3477 in-state and $5946 out of state, Evergreen is far and away the most inexpensive college to attend in the Parade top ten, followed by $6320 for Morehead College in Atlanta, Georgia, and then Beloit College of Wisconsin with a not-so-close $9644.

Echoing the sentiments of many on campus, Acting President Richard Schwartz thought the media attention "reaffirms the recognition we felt we've deserved over the years. It's nice the message is coming home to Washington." The message came home for real this fall, as Evergreen enrollment recorded an all-time high headcount of 2826 students on campus as compared with 2717 last year. For a while, students, faculty and staff paraded to the Office of College Relations for free copies of the Birnbach feature and other press clippings (copies are still available by calling 866-6000, ext. 6128 or writing College Relations, Library 3114, The Evergreen State College 98505). "My Dad wasn't too sure about me coming here," said one freshman as she picked up her copy, "but he called from Texas last night when he saw the Parade article to tell me I must have been right after all!"

Geoduck Entrepreneurs

Compiled and written by Director of Information Services Mark Clemens, staff member Norma Gilligan, student intern Calvin Johnson, and freelancer Joan Barker '84

As in other things, Evergreen has proved to be a spawning ground for its own special breed of independent, self-employed business people. Weaned from secondary schools to the real world through the crucible of critical thinking, intensive collaboration and rigorous interdisciplinary studies, Geoduck graduates cut through the chaff to the quick of success in unique and effective ways.

Tim Moffatt '74

Tim Moffatt is the proprietor of Young Alaska Publishing Company out of Anchorage, Alaska, which just released its first book: How to Get Plenty of Fish in Alaska. They will specialize in children's books. Tim lays claim to be being the first registered student at Evergreen, the fifth student employee of the Library, and the 35th staff employee of the Library.

Jonathan Ott '75

Ott runs his own chemical manufacturing business on Vashon Island, producing rare natural toxins for use in biochemical research. Previously he operated on a consignment basis, consigning his products to another firm for marketing, but about a year ago he set up his own business, Natural Products Company, in a passive solar structure. He also does technical writing in scientific publications.

Harry Donald Howell '80

Mr. Howell set up a Korean Taekwon-Do studio in Lewistown, Pennsylvania, where he teaches martial arts along with philosophy and exercise to produce the tenets of courtesy, integrity, self-control, perseverance and indomitable spirit. The name of his studio breaks this way: tae = foot technique; kwon = hand technique; and do = philosophy.

Lynda Barry '79

Among other things, Dr. Lynda J. Barry goes to singles bars to research the patterns of people's love lives. Lynda Barry releases those and other disturbing comic results of love in monthly cartoons for Esquire and for a weekly strip syndicated in 15 cities nationwide. The Real Comet Press in Seattle is publishing her latest book, Naked Ladies, Naked Ladies, this month.

Did Barry's entrepreneurial success start at Evergreen? First she studied the history of the Renaissance and the Middle Ages, the history of science, and then she settled into painting. Her first editor was Matt Groening '77 (now an L.A.-based cartoonist). He recalls "Lynda would come visit me while I was working on the school paper, and we would sit around and draw little cartoons and pass them to each other. Hers were so funny that I asked if we could publish some. They were one-shot single frame things, very whimsical, absurd and silly."

The single frames grew into panels, and her comics went from the CPJ to the University of Washington Daily, to the Seattle Sun to The Chicago Reader and, eventually, to Esquire.

Of the latter, Barry says, "I think 'How could my work ever be in Esquire?' In this magazine that says 'Man At His Best' right underneath the title?" But if there's any group of people that I'd like to have reading my work, it's the group who reads Esquire. I think they tend to be men who are in controlling positions, and the ideas in my work are good things for them to know about."

Barry does out those ideas in her work on a qualitative, rather than a quantitative, basis. She resists lucrative offers to turn out a daily strip because "it can get so bad so fast."

Sounds like Barry can count on success for some time to come.

"Satellite Kitchens" is a Christmas catalog project of products made by artists in the Olympia area. Several Evergreen graduates, students and artists are teaming up to produce the catalog, which will be available in mid-November. A small percentage of every order will go to covering the cost of producing "Satellite Kitchens," the rest will go to the artists. "Satellite Kitchens" can be ordered at Box 1033, Olympia, Washington 98507.

Russell Bataglia '81 Bruce Pavitt '81

Bataglia and Pavitt started Fallout Records last June in Seattle's Capitol Hill district. They specialize in independently produced rock 'n' roll, African pop and imports from Europe. They also have started a record label, Bombshelter, which released a 12" E.P. by Seattle's top underground band, the U-Men. Future plans include a record by an all-female Japanese pop group called Shonen Knife.

Peter Lesser '81

Lesser resides in Olympia and owns a business named Pacific Soyfoods, which manufactures and distributes soybean products. Top of the line at Pacific Soyfoods is an item called "Soysage," a flavorful, high-protein, high-fiber food that can be used many different ways. Sold on the West Coast and in Alaska and Hawaii as well as distributed nationally, Pacific Soyfoods also operates a mobile restaurant called the Traveling Deli at fairs and markets during the summer.

This group operates a seafood business called Kamilche Sea Farms on Totten Inlet between Shelton and Olympia, and specialize in bay mussels. After a considerable period of time out on the water in small boats on cold days tending and harvesting small crops of the mussels, or mytilus edulis, and otherwise learning the ins and outs of the restaurant and wholesale seafood trade, they now consider it to be an operation with a legitimate future, if the "Evergreen inventiveness" continues to help them along.

Pamela James '80
Bruce Clifton '80

Clifton and James operate an egg business, not a hen and egg business, but making and marketing beautifully designed and decorated eggs. Their business began as an emergency stopgap one year around Christmas and grew in size and production. Their products were featured in Seventeen magazine in 1984, and House Beautiful is currently working with them on a future story. James and Clifton have made custom-designed eggs for Ricardo Montalban, Hal Prince, Jack Gilford, and other celebrities. Usually duck eggs with a handpainted design, the eggs are available with a message that pulls out and rewinds inside the shell. James and Clifton have employed numerous Evergreen students in their operation. James is the designer and Clifton works at the various other jobs that need doing.

Tim Girvin '75

Another Evergreen alum to emerge as a successful artist in Seattle is Lynda Barry's ex-classmate, calligrapher and designer Tim Girvin. The two had a drawing class together and Girvin says "Lynda's amazing, very talented."

He has a lot of good things to say about his education at Evergreen as well.

He says "I owe a lot to that college. I was able to aggressively force a specific direction in design for myself there. I learned to accept compromises in my learning, which eventually meant I broadened, rather than narrowed my knowledge. I got a complete and classical understanding of design through the history of art, language and thought, and through writing as a basis for exploring design. I went to Evergreen to work at finding alternative ways to solve design problems. I called going to school there 'work.' Among other things, I read 300 books a year and consequently developed a great relationship with the librarians."

Today Girvin works in his own design firm, Tim Girvin Designs, Inc., which employs ten people in a studio on Western Avenue. The firm started out in 1977 designing local projects and is now engaged in over 100 projects at any given time. Their workload ranges from specialized lettering treatments and typographic design to visual campaigns for films including Country, The Hunger and Once Upon a Time in America to packaging, corporate identity and print collateral for clients such as Bloomingdale's, Nordstrom's, Westin Motels, Alfa Romeo, International Aero Engines and Estee Lauder. Girvin's firm has also done major promotional design in Canada and Europe and he is looking forward to developing business in Japan as well. As the Seattle Weekly put it recently, "Tim Girvin continues to be one of Seattle's hottest graphic designers."

Bruce E. Franklin '75

Now a partner in Land Resource Strategies, Inc., and Architects Diversified, Inc., (both in Sarasota, Florida), Franklin graduated from Evergreen and then started a building design firm in Olympia with Bill Knauss, a former Evergreen faculty member. Franklin went on to UCLA for a master's degree in architecture. He has served as a program director for the mayor's committee in greater Los Angeles and assisted in implementing a community development and rescue program for old railroad stations in the area.

James Mead '73

Mead studied filmmaking at Evergreen, but upon graduation discovered he didn't want to do that professionally. Deciding he needed to learn on a job, he took up a career with Camera, Etc., in Washington, California and Utah. Then Mead moved to Duluth, Minnesota, where he operated MotoFoto, a door-to-door photofinishing service, for a short time, and then to Olympia where he opened a juice bar known as The Lunchbox. That operation expanded to become the Herb & Onion and then the Urban Onion as it is today.

Lydia Garrett '77

Lydia Garrett is a full-time foreign language teacher at an Olympia area high school, as well as the operator of "Swiss Hike," a summer tour of Switzerland. Swiss Hike is in its second year of business and seems to be well-received by the public. Lydia studied in Zurich and worked several years in a multilingual setting in Europe. At Evergreen, she studied with faculty member Andrew Hanfman and obtained her teacher's certificate.

John Ernst '78

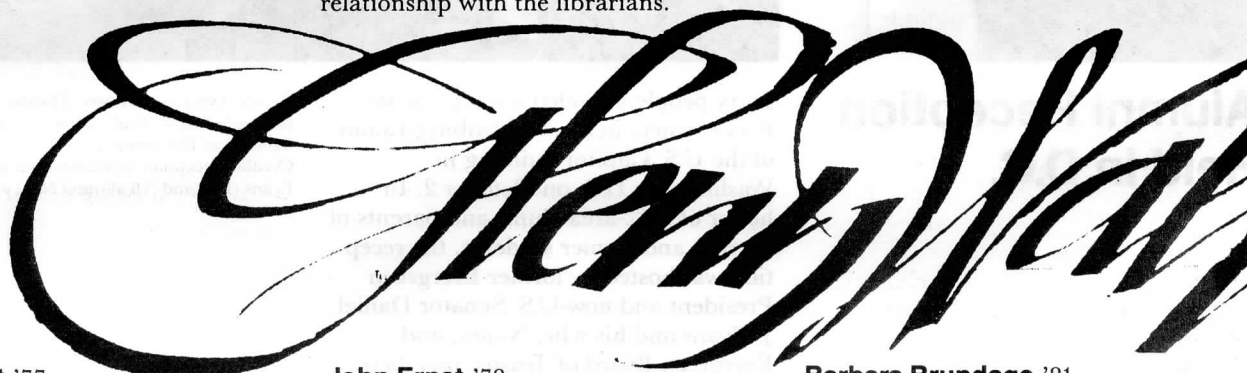

Ernst owns and operates Valley Light Center, Valley Lights Publications and a professional secretarial and errand service called "My Secretary" out of Oak View, California. The Valley Light Center is a non-profit religious organization established in 1981. Ernst's book, "Sadhana in Our Daily Lives: A Handbook for the Awakening of the Spiritual Self," was written during his final year at Evergreen.

Barbara Brundage '81

Barbara Brundage and her husband own a bed and breakfast guest house in Olympia called Puget View Guest House. Located near Tolmie State Park, they offer a two-bedroom cottage for their guests.

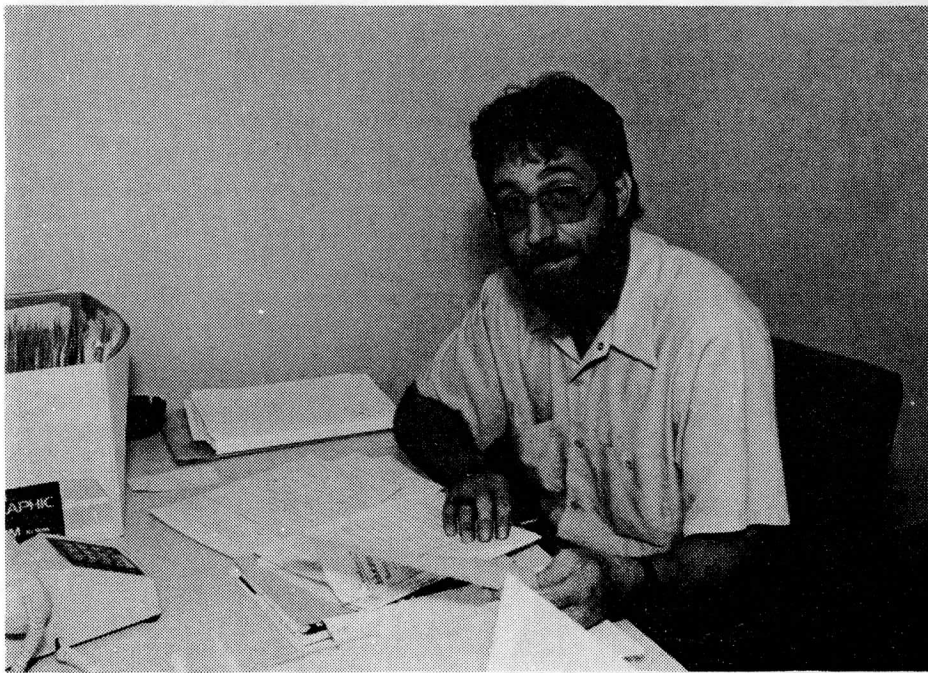

Robert "Hank" Holzer '77

Hank Holzer studied environmental chemistry at Evergreen, but after five years of lab work, he made a career change. His love of woodworking led him to set up a furniture-designing business. Working from his home in the Montlake District of Seattle, he produces fine quality furniture, and although his financial remuneration is relatively low, he feels gratification from the feeling of control he has of his life and the creative level of his work.

Search Homing In on New President

Search Committee member Jim Wussler, a staff utility worker, burned plenty of midnight oil while reviewing nearly 200 applications for Evergreen's presidency. Other Committee members are faculty members Ken Dolbeare (chair), Betty Estes, and Byron Youtz; staff members Arnaldo Rodriguez, Sue Washburn, and Jim Wussler; Trustees Thelma Jackson and George Mante; community representative James Dolliver; student Mike Marsh; and alumna Julie Grant. Rodriguez, Youtz, Mante, Dolliver and Grant all served on the first Search Committee.

After an intensive process that began last summer, Evergreen's Presidential Search Committee has narrowed down the field of candidates and is on schedule for the Board of Trustees to name a new president in December. Nearly 200 applications were screened during August and September by the 11-member committee, which then cut the field to eight semi-finalists—all "outstanding prospects"—in mid-October.

Faculty member Ken Dolbeare, who serves as chairman of the Search Committee, reported "each candidate has very substantial campus experience, a distinguished record of commitment to creative academic excellence and multicultural values, and glowing evaluations from a wide variety of sources."

Off-campus interviews further reduced the field to three finalists, who were named at the end of October—just after press time for the Evergreen ReView. Those candidates and their spouses will be invited to campus for a two-day visit in early November. Each candidate will meet with staff, faculty, students, alumni and community members, and will also give a public presentation on higher education or the liberal arts and answer questions from the Evergreen community.

"The task is for the whole Evergreen community to convince the finalists that our college presents a unique challenge and opportunity for them," Dolbeare said. "I hope every candidate leaves this campus feeling she or he wants this job."

Interested alums, parents and friends are encouraged to address questions and suggestions to Cheryl Huggins, administrative secretary for the Search Committee, at (206)866-6000, ext. 6500.

Alumni Reception Held in D.C.

Forty people attended a reception for Evergreeners in the Vandenberg Room of the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. on October 2. In honor of D.C.-area alums and parents of current and former students, the reception was hosted by former Evergreen President and now-U.S. Senator Daniel J. Evans and his wife, Nancy, and Evergreen Board of Trustee members Thelma Jackson and George Mante, who were in town for a meeting of the Association of Governing Boards. Arrangements were made by Alumni Coordinator Ellie Dornan with Irene Winter of Evans' staff and a group of alumni—Gretchen Sorensen, Maria Tsu-Fong Tsao, Anne Avery, John Beauchamp and Nancy Parkes—who hope to arrange another event early next year. If you'd like to be kept abreast of alumni events in the Washington, D.C. area, contact Maria Tsu-Fong Tsao at (202) 224-3635.

Evergreen Arranges Discount Purchase Plan for Microcomputers

Director of Computer Services Ron Woodbury recently announced Evergreen's first discount purchase plan for microcomputers. The agreement is with Dave Byers for the Sanyo product line at his Computer Centers store in downtown Olympia.

"The plan provides a highly IBM-compatible, easy-to-use computer to meet the needs of most students, staff and faculty at a lower price than a Commodore 64," says Woodbury.

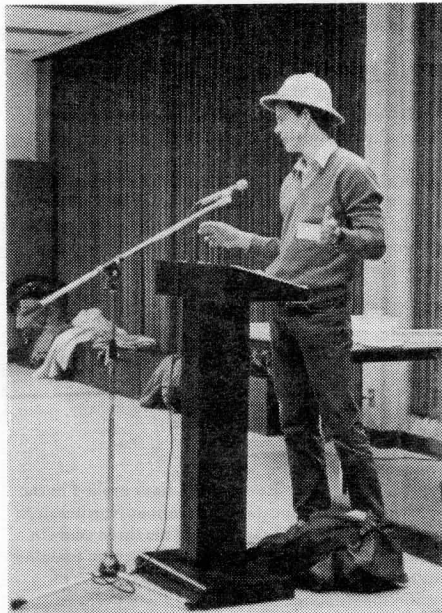

It also provides another dividend for receiving an Evergreen degree, as the plan includes alumni.

While the Sanyo machines do not run all IBM software and are somewhat slower than the best Zenith and IBM machines, they use the standard 8086 chip, are 16-bit, MS-DOS, 128 K machines, and with 80-column, full-screen editing, and do "almost anything anyone could want to do with word processing," says Evergreen faculty member Greg Weeks, the campus's first Sanyo purchaser and president presumptive of the Evergreen Sanyo Club.

The Computer Center's plan is for several different packages, providing one or two single or double-sided, double-density disk drives, with six different printers from basic dot matrix to letter quality. The basic package includes WordStar 3.3 and EasyWriter 1.3 word-processing packages, the CalcStar spreadsheet, and Sanyo BASIC; one single-sided, double-density disk drive; and the Legend, an 80-character-per-second printer, all for $1142. The top-of-the-line package includes mail merge and data base management software from either Micropro or Information Unlimited Software, two double-sided, double-density disk drives, and the Silver Reed letter quality printer for $1780.

Byers adds that when he has sold 25 machines, he will permanently lower the price by 5% as well as rebate 5% to the purchasers of those first 25.

Board Elects Baker

The Alumni Association Board elected Scott Baker of Olympia to serve a one-year term as president during their annual meeting at the Alumni Reunion.

Baker will head a cabinet that includes Meg Imrie, Redondo, first vice president; Chris Nelson, Olympia, second vice president; Barbara Graf, Olympia, treasurer; Linda Wynne, Olympia, secretary, and Julie Grant, Olympia, past president, who will serve on the Alumni Board as an ex-officio member.

Elected to their first terms on the board were Bob Davis, Seattle; Ursula Harvey, Vancouver; Steven Miller, Olympia; Christina Koons, Olympia; Brian Murphy, Olympia; Nancie Payne, Olympia; Claudia Shobert, Vancouver; Linda Wynne, Olympia; Myrna Zolyomi, Olympia; and Dolores Zschomler, Vancouver. Re-elected to second terms on the board were Scott Baker, Rob Fellows, Lynne Garner and Mike Hall.

Continuing members include Mary Bergstrom, Ken Balsley, Richard Bever, Nina Carter, Barbara Graf, Keith Goehner, Meg Imrie, Richard Kelly, Chris Nelson, and Carlton Tucker.

The new board is planning a weekend retreat at Alderbrook in November.

Henderson (top) and Lidman share their Peru Nov. 14.

How About a Night in Peru?

You can savor all the excitement of Peru without leaving Olympia when faculty members Russ Lidman and Peta Henderson present a slide/lecture on their Peruvian travels at 7:30 p.m. on November 14 in the Recital Hall at Evergreen. Accompanied by his family, Lidman spent a year in Lima, Peru, as a Fulbright Fellow, while Henderson traveled in Peru and other South American countries during her summer break.

For those of you who have expressed interest in Lidman's two-week travel package to Peru next July, this lecture is a must. If you haven't heard about the

Reunion '84 Rejects Rain

The weatherman was decidedly uncooperative for the Alumni Reunion held on campus, October 5-7. He was unable, however, to dampen the enthusiasm of over 100 alumni who returned to Evergreen to renew old friendships and to enjoy the many activities planned for them by the Alumni Association.

The Reunion began with a Friday evening reception and entertainment provided by alumna Meg Imrie and her flute ensemble, "Windsong." The premiere of the second annual Alumni Art Exhibit in Gallery 4 brought out more than 80 alums, faculty, staff and students to view the work of Laura Wessel '79, Larry Mix '82, Michael Jenkins '78, Tucker Petertil '81, Judith Smith '72, Corine Landrieu '84, Petrina Walker '78, Kelly Stevens '81, Mariko Marrs '83, Conni Strobe '79, Judy Kir '84, Stephen Smith '74, Joe Tougas '89 and Ross Matteson '80.

Festivities began at high noon on Saturday with lunch and a welcome address by Acting President Richard Schwartz and an update on the presidential search by Search chairman and faculty member Ken Dolbeare. At the annual homecoming soccer games, the Evergreen men "whipped" Trinity Western of Langley, B.C., while the women lost by a hair to the University of Portland.

The annual business meeting featured a brief report by outgoing Alumni Association President Julie Grant on the past year's highlights, including alum participation in Super Saturday, successful chicken sales at Olympia's annual Lakefair celebration, continued support of the Student Barbara Graf (center), Alumni Association Treasurer, gives instructions to Association members at the annual meeting.

Lunch Program, the Alumni Mentors Program, and two very successful alumni social events in Seattle.

Five workshops following the annual meeting proved popular. Long-time faculty member Rudy Martin led a group discussion on Knowledge for What?, a book by Robert S. Lynd. Alumni Scott Baker '77 and Doug King '77 told their group everything about small business from an Evergreener point-of-view. The balance of the afternoon took on a political tone when Joe Dear '76 guided his participants in a discussion of the Washington state economy, John Calambokidis '79 helped his group examine avenues for citizen action, and alum board member Dick Bever '80 answered questions about the Association's Political Action Committee.

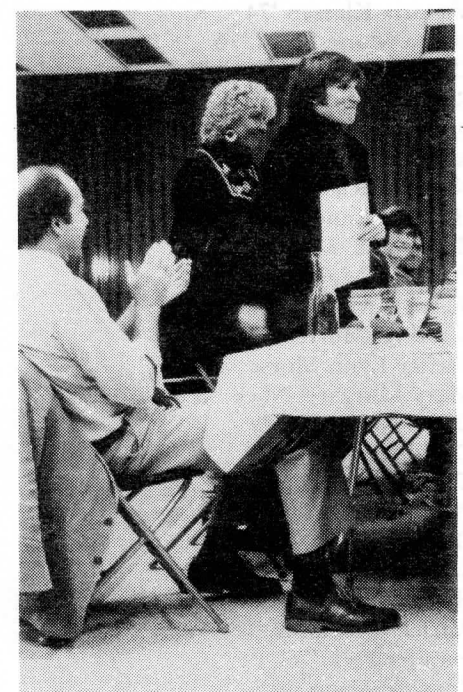

When the bar threw open its doors on Saturday evening, an eager crowd belled up to sample Reunion '84's official batch of Geoduck Sludge. From the ensuing sips and smiles, it was obvious sludgemaker Keith Goehner '78 had served the perfect punch.

Outstanding '84 Graduates Honored

One of the high points of the Reunion '84 was the presentation of certificates of congratulations to more than a dozen of the outstanding graduates of 1984.

Nominated by their faculty members as exceptional students at the suggestion of Alumni Association board member and current Campus Activities Director Michael Hall '74 were Jan Teague, Michael Barnes, Lolita Johnson, Paul Traub, Keith Clay, Ruth Penn, Johanna Pemble, Pat Parfitt, Diane King, Judy Kirk, Dave Clarkson and Thomas Kaye.

Teague received her certificate from theater and drama faculty member Ainara Wilder; and Ruth Penn and Diane King were awarded their certificates by science faculty member Betty Kutter; while Julie Grant presented certificates to Clay and Parfitt. Tacoma Program Director and faculty member Maxine Mimms declared that all '84 Tacoma graduates were outstanding, and recent graduate Michele Boucree accepted a certificate in their behalf.

Alumni Mentors Program Begins Second Season to Rave Reviews

Some 80 new Evergreen students crowded CAB 110 for a fun evening of bingo, popcorn and cider during Orientation Week in September. Led by alums Mary Bergstrom, Jerry McLaughlin, Cheryl Beckman, Steve Hunter and Corey Meador, this first Alumni Association-sponsored event of the academic year began with lots of enthusiasm from both the students and alums. Cries of "Bingo!" bounced around the room and alums kept busy awarding prizes.

"We scoured the Westside for plenty of great prizes," Alumni Coordinator Ellie Dornan revealed. "But according to the students," she confided, "the best prizes of all were donated by our very own bookstore manager, Denis Snyder."

The Alumni Mentors program began last year to help new students adjust to Evergreen and college life in general. The new program was adopted by the Alumni Association, who sponsored three events for last year's new students: a panel discussion and social hour at the beginning of the school year, a self-evaluation coaching session at the end of Fall Quarter and a pizza and bowling night during Winter Quarter to alleviate "cabin fever." Alums were delighted with student participation at the events.

"We need new ideas that interest students," Dornan says, "We want students to feel comfortable here and so they can learn what we alums know—that Evergreen is a great place to get an education." She urges interested graduates to get involved by contacting her in Library 3103 or at 866-6000, ext. 6565.

Lost Alums

The whereabouts of these Evergreen grads were unaccounted for as of Spring, 1984. If you can fill in the blanks for us, please let us know by writing: Lost Alums, Library 3103, The Evergreen State College, Olympia, WA 98505.

Class of 1973

Terry Kraft-Oliver, Vancouver, WA, is currently managing the Hood River Conservation Project, a twenty-million-dollar electric energy research effort.

Class of 1974

Mary Stiles Kline, Lynnwood, WA, recently had an article about the Washington State ferry "Kalakala" published in the new Washington magazine, a publication featuring articles about Washington State.

Robert Thomsen, Springfield, OR, owns Oregon Aqua-Foods, Inc. in Springfield, Oregon.

Paul Marshall, Marysville, WA, is a member of the faculty of Everett Community College. He is involved with personal, career and academic counseling, and also teaches classes.

Marty Oppenheimer, Seattle, has her own business, a successful film production operation. She shot a Seattle-produced feature film called "Bomb's Away" last summer, and has also done many TV commercials. In the winter of 1983 she worked on commercials in the San Francisco area and completed a large commercial project for Apple Computers. Marty was married in September, 1983.

David A. Boggs, Orangevale, CA, is currently the general manager of the Sacramento Regional Transit District in Sacramento, CA.

Timothy Shaw Girvin, Seattle, continues to be one of Seattle's hottest graphic designers. Girvin and his design team have composed visual campaigns for more than a dozen films, including "Once Upon a Time in America," "The Hunger," "Streets of Fire" and the upcoming "Country," starring Jessica Lange and Sam Shepard. He recently completed an important project for Bloomingdale's of New York. Entitled "Japan," it is one of the largest and most lavish ad campaigns in the store's history. Previously, Girvin did "country themes" on Ireland and France for the New York department store. He has also worked on major projects for Time and Life magazines.

Judith Prest, Schenectady, NY, graduated in May, 1983 from SUNY, Albany's MSW Program and is currently employed in Schenectady County Substance Abuse Prevention Program involved in coordinating the prevention program in three school districts within the county.

Greg A. Booth, Alexandria, VA, is currently working as a Planning Coordinator (natural resources) with the Bureau of Land Management's Eastern States Office in Alexandria, VA. On April 14, Greg was married to Beatrice Giorlando. Beatrice, graduated from Vassar, is also a geologist with the Bureau and a part-time medical student. Greg and Beatrice honeymooned in Jamaica.

Jonathan Stevens, Washington, D.C., is a legislative assistant for Senator Bob Packwood of Oregon. He is responsible for advising the Senator on environmental and natural resources issues.

Class of 1976

Knut "Skip" Berger, is the Managing Editor of Washington magazine, a new publication which features stories, articles, and information about the Evergreen state. The first issue was published this past June.

Joseph Albert Dear, Seattle, recently wed fellow Evergreen alum Leslie Woodruff Owen '77.

Ron Olson, Arcata, CA, is a graduate student at Humboldt State University in Arcata, CA, where he is working on a masters degree in fisheries. Last summer he was in Ketchikan, Alaska, where he was conducting research on sockeye salmon for the U.S. Forest Service.

Edward McQuarrie, Cincinnati, OH, will soon complete requirements for his Ph.D. in social psychology at the University of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Duncan D. Mann, Philadelphia, PA, has accepted a job at Rutgers University as an Assistant Professor of Economics for this fall. He plans on finishing his Ph.D. in economics at the University of Pennsylvania this summer.

Beverlee Bowman Christensen Price, Edmonds, WA, has married and has had several pieces of writing published.

Richard Manning Ricks, Washington, D.C., was recently married to J.E. McNeil. Richard graduated from the Antioch School of Law. He and his wife are both attorneys with the law firm of McNeil and Ricks, P.C., in Washington, D.C.

Lynn Diane Robb, Manhattan, NY, is a graphics artist/designer in Manhattan.

Thomas Richard Lenon, Seattle, is proud to announce the birth of his son, Alexander Taylor Lenon, on April 4, 1984.

Pamela Lynn Farr Nath, Lacey, WA, was recently wed to a fellow Evergreen student, Michael Carlton Nath. She graduated from the University of Chicago in 1979 with a M.S.T. and is employed by the Woodland Elementary School, North Thurston School District.

Class of 1977

Jack Warfield Van Valkenburgh, San Francisco, CA, is working with the MX missile lawsuit in Nebraska.

Aisha Ann Barnes, Claremont, CA, is still teaching English at a boy's school in Southern California. She began a creative writing program at the school and edits a literary journal. She studied at Harvard University with Helen Vendin last summer after being awarded a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Aisha is in a graduate program at Claremont Graduate School.

Leslie Woodruff Owen, Seattle, recently married fellow Evergreen Alum Joseph Albert Dear.

David Allen Jones, Madison, WI, is presently Administrative Assistant at the Waisman Center on Mental Retardation and Human Development, University of Wisconsin at Madison. He is presently completing his Master's degree in human development through Pacific Oaks College in Pasadena, California. David's daughter, Jennifer, has been accepted for enrollment at Evergreen this fall.

Diane Morton, Boulder, CO, completed her Ph.D. in Molecular Biology at the University of Oregon in 1983. She is currently doing post-doctoral research at the University of Colorado in Boulder. She was married in July and will soon move to Ithaca, NY, where she will continue molecular biology research at Cornell University.

Robert Crawford, Old Town, ME, is working as a consultant biologist to L.L. Bean's fly-fishing school and working as a carpenter part-time. This fall he started law school at the University of Minnesota.

Dan Tishman, Sharon, CT, has been directing The National Audubon Society Expedition Institute. Recently he has directed his energies back towards the Northwest by developing two new programs for the Audubon. One is the Pacific Northwest Semester and the other is called Northwest Expeditions.

Class of 1978

Carson Ann "Kit" Miller, San Francisco, CA, continues her work as co-director of the Agape Foundation, doing fundraising training for non-intervention groups as well as for other peace organizations.

Suzanne Mulligan Morris, Stockton, CA, was married last December. She is running her own business and her "Travel Rescue Kit" was in the summer issue of National Geographic's Traveler Magazine.

David Dougal Stevenson, Claremont, CA, is teaching English at a boy's school in Southern California. He is working on getting some articles published. This past August he went climbing in Peru.

Fernando E. Maldonado, Staten Island, NY, recently received his MSW degree from Adelphi University, Garden City, New York. He continues to work at South Beach Psychiatric Center in Staten Island.

Sarah Stollwell, Old Town, ME, is finishing her master's in wildlife at the University of Maine. Her thesis work is an inventory of the wildlife of Maine's peatlands.

Jill Stewart, Los Angeles, CA, received her master's degree in journalism at Stanford in 1978. She has worked as a journalist for five years. She is now a reporter for the Los Angeles Times and has done some freelance writing recently for A + Magazine.

Matthew Abram Groening, Los Angeles, CA, is a writer and cartoonist in Hollywood.

Class of 1979

Douglas J. Luckerman, Boston, MA, has enrolled in the cooperative legal education program at Northeastern University School of Law. During his three years in law school he will undertake four quarters of full-time apprenticeship at law as well as seven quarters of traditional academic study.

Michael Price, Champagne, IL, is currently in an M.D./Ph.D. program at the University of Illinois College of Medicine. His Ph.D. work will be in neuropsychology. Michael worked this past summer as a computer consultant for an engineering company designing software for industrial furnace control.

Janet Blaser Dermatis, Victorville, CA, has just received her teaching credentials and will be teaching in the Victor Valley Elementary School District this year.

Kathleen M. Theoe, Puyallup, WA, was recently promoted to the position of Vice President—Marketing and Customer Services, McChord Credit Union, Tacoma, Washington.

Sean McClint, Los Angeles, CA, is currently working on a made-for-TV movie and feature film as second assistant cameraman in Los Angeles, CA.

Betsy Carey, Eugene, OR, has been working as a letter carrier with the post office for the past four years. She is studying poetry and building a loom.

Justin Dick, Denver, CO, has been made Administrative Director of the Recording and Research Center of the Denver Center for the Performing Arts. This is a brand new five million dollar audio- and video-recording studio with a voice laboratory connected to it.

Class of 1980

Neill Kramer, Rochester, NY, recently received a position with the Rochester Museum and Science Center. The museum is in the process of a ten-year, $10 million renovation. The exhibits will be altered so as to become interdisciplinary. Neill will be coordinator of public programs.

David R. Looper, Watkinsville, GA, just completed his first year of law school at the University of Georgia. This last summer David was in Troy, New York, working as a clerk for a firm that engages in environmental litigation. He hopes to practice environmental law after he graduates in 1986.

Betsy Colwill, Columbia, MO, has completed requirements for a Master's degree in history at the State University of New York at Binghamton and is continuing her work towards her Ph.D. there.

Deborah Mersky, Austin TX, had a one-person art show on June 10. She is teaching art in several locations in the Austin area and has just finished preparing her first exhibit for a children's exhibition composed mainly of masks and faces.

Mike Taylor is now at the University of Alabama on a teaching and writing fellowship. He recently returned from a three-year teaching stint in Japan.

Class of 1981

Joseph P. Bartek, Boston, MA, has enrolled in the cooperative legal education program at Northeastern University School of Law. During his three years in law school he will undertake four quarters of full-time apprenticeship at law as well as seven quarters of traditional academic study.

Betsy Lou Wolf, Boston MA, received the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree from Northeastern University in June. Her program there was similar to the one started this fall by Joseph Bartek (above).

Class of 1982

Laurie Elise Dieterich, Washington D.C., started Harvard Law School in August after 1½ years employment on the staff of Congressman Rod Chandler as his legislative assistant for defense, trade and foreign affairs.

Gilmore Lewis Crosby, Seattle, just received his M.S.W. from the University of Washington. He is currently employed at Highline Evaluation and Treatment Facility. In August he trained for CCF, an organization consulting firm which specializes in the Organizational Effectiveness Program(OEP).

Mary Hart, Kennewick, WA, recently completed her Master of Librarianship degree at the University of Washington. She is expecting to be employed at the Mid-Columbia Library.

Alice Janny, Olympia, WA, has joined the financial planning firm of King Capital, Inc, a Seattle-based financial services firm. She works with individual clients on personal investment and tax planning.

Class of 1983

Maryline Blackburn, Anchorage, AK, has recently returned from Atlantic City where she represented the State of Alaska in the Miss America Pageant. She was awarded $2,500 as a non-finalist talent winner during the contest. She will be touring with a USO show during the summer of 1985 with other Miss America contestants.

Lend a Helping Hand to History

Attention alums! Do you have any slides, photographs, audio tapes, or video tapes from Evergreen's early years? Media Archives in the Library is seeking such materials to continue their only-just-begun task of documenting the history of The Evergreen State College. They also can help out in return if you need materials for presentations on college history or events. Contact Johanna Mandt or Malcolm Stilson at Archives in the Library, The Evergreen State College, Olympia, Washington 98505.

Tribute to Japan Tops Fall/Winter Events

Don't let the post-holiday blues get you down. Plan to attend Evergreen's third annual "Tribute to Japan" on Sunday, January 27, in the Evans Library lobby. Japanese dancers, a kimono fashion show, an authentic tea ceremony, traditional music and such mouthwatering delicacies as sushi, tempura, and teriyaki chicken—all this and more will be featured in the free, half-day celebration that drew over 1200 college and community members to campus last year. Details available at (206)866-6000, ext. 6128.

Northwest Indian Artists

November 9-December 9

A photographic exhibit of 15 leading Northwest craftspeople, including basketmaker Hazel Pete, in Evergreen Library's Gallery 2.

Pocket Opera

8 p.m., Friday, November 16

The popular San Francisco company presents "A Pick of the Pockets," featuring more than a dozen light and classical opera selections. In the Experimental Theatre.

Evergreen Jazz Ensemble

8 p.m., Tuesday, November 27

The Ensemble blows jazz hot and cool under the direction of Dave McCrary.

Theatre Mask Ensemble

8 p.m., Friday, November 30

This troupe from Portland uses mime, dance and stunning masks to evoke everything from mythic tragedy to deep belly laughs. In the Experimental Theatre.

Visiting faculty member Ken-ichi Yasumuro

Yasumuro Fascinated by Differences Between America and Home

By Keith Eisner, Information Specialist

Space and initiative are two of the most striking aspects of Ken-ichi Yasumuro's first impressions of America. The visiting professor from Kobe University of Commerce in Kobe, Japan, still sounds a little awed when he talks about stepping off the plane in Seattle this August.

"So much space," he says. "It's very remarkable—there is so much clean and open space and it's so very beautiful."

Yasumuro is also inspired by the wide-open style of Evergreen students. In Japan, students are waiting to be taught," he says. "They're not aggressive about learning. Japanese professors also discourage autonomy, but here there is much more equality between students and teachers."

The 37-year-old son of a Yokohama factory manager has been a life-long student of international business and trade. Yasumuro's articles on the subject include a study of "Political List Management," an examination of the relation of business and commerce to social and political environments. Presently he's sharing that knowledge with students in Evergreen's Graduate Program in Public Administration. Winter Quarter, he'll teach undergraduates on the relationships between Japanese and U.S. business styles.

Yasumuro is fascinated by the similarities and contrasts between Japanese and American industry and commerce. Like the U.S., he relates, Japan's heavy "smoke-stack" industries have suffered in the past few years, being replaced in supremacy by electronics and computers. Ironically, Japanese economists are concerned with the dumping of cheaper Korean and Taiwanese goods on their markets, in much the same way that American manufacturers have been concerned about Japanese products.

Yasumuro shakes his head when asked about U.S. and Japanese trade imbalances. "It's not good right now. One possible resolution is for continued Japanese investment in American companies. Five years ago most Japanese investors were interested in Southeast Asia, but now we see a lot of investing in the U.S., especially in California and other sunbelt industries. Maybe in the next decade this move will help the balance of payments."

When not studying and teaching, Yasumuro enjoys taking his six-year-old daughter, four-year-old son and wife Hisayo on trips around the Northwest. During the week, his daughter attends McLane elementary school, his son attends Driftwood Daycare Center and his wife studies English composition at South Puget Sound Community College.

"People have been very kind and helpful," Yasumuro says, smiling. "My children are making friends and so am I. It is an exciting time."

Athletic Program Welcomes New Coaches

Two new coaches are already hard at it this fall. Janet Welch, who served as assistant coach of the sailing team last year, is now the head coach, while Bruce Fletcher is the new coach of the swim team and Aquatics Coordinator of the Rec Center pool.

An '82 Evergreen alumna, Welch led a sailing team with only four returning members into their first action at the University of Washington and returned with a fifth place finish in a field of 10 and a third place for the A team.

"We simply won't be a very experienced team," says Welch, "but as a new coach it's exciting to start fresh with a whole new batch of people."

Fletcher is a Capital High School of Olympia graduate who returns to his hometown from a position as assistant swim coach at Central Washington University, which sent 26 swimmers to nationals last year. Under his guidance, Evergreen's swimmers are already practicing twice a day. As a collegiate swimmer, Fletcher participated in the National Championships three years in a row, but there's more to coaching for him than qualifying for nationals.

"My goal as coach is to help each swimmer improve," Fletcher says. "I encourage team members to set personal goals which are realistic and reachable. That way, as they progress, they'll feel good about the work they're doing."

Welch echoed a similar concern for her sailors' self-worth: "Being on a team provides a person with a sense of continuity and facilitates making friendships. It makes being a student a little easier."

Swim meets begin in earnest after the first of the year, while sailing competition started in October and continues right through winter and spring.

Late Breaking Sports News

The men's soccer team has put together an outstanding record this fall. At press time, Coach Arno Zoske's booters were coming off a 1-0 home victory over the University of Puget Sound, bringing their record to 8-2-5 for the year. The women's soccer team has fared less well as they stand at 2-13-1 for the season, even though Coach Tamar Chotzen's troops dropped their last three games by scores of only 2-0, 2-0 and 2-1. The men will be shooting for a big time upset when they play the University of Washington's Soccerdogs—currently the best team in the Northwest and No. 8 nationally—in Seattle on November 4. Evergreen's young sailing team finished in the middle of the pack in their first two regattas, then grabbed a resounding victory by winning nine of 13 races at the Lewis and Clark Regatta in Portland; while Coach Pete Steilberg's cross country team has been improving personal times and team finishes weekly as they build toward the NAIA District Championships at Pacific Lutheran University on November 3.

'84-'85 Foundation Scholars Reflect the Diversity of New Students

The Evergreen State College Foundation is pleased to announce the recipients of 40 Foundation Scholarships for the 1984-85 academic year. ## Foundation Fund-Raising Sets New Record in '83-'84

By John Gallagher, Associate Director of Development

The Evergreen State College enjoyed a fantastic year during 1983-84. All of the super publicity described elsewhere in this issue, real progress by Geoduck athletic teams, highly successful theater productions, and breathtaking shows in the Evergreen galleries set the pace for a banner year. In keeping with this upbeat tempo, Evergreen also enjoyed its best-ever fund-raising year. The Evergreen State College Foundation, the fund-raising arm of the college, received a record total of $281,994 in gifts during 1983-84, a 25% increase over 1982-83. Evergreen supporters have now increased the amount given to the college in each of the last five years. Support improved in virtually every area. Highlights of the year include:

►An 8.3% growth above 1982-83 in the Annual Fund, which provides scholarship and special project support to Evergreen's students, and reached $76,971 in 1983-84, an Annual Fund record.

Gifts received from July 1, 1983 to June 30, 1984

Problems? We have made every attempt to be absolutely accurate in our reporting. But we sometimes make mistakes! If we haven't listed you correctly in the following pages, or if we have not listed you when we should have, we would appreciate hearing from you.

►Growth in the total number of gifts received by the Foundation from 1,722 in 1982-83 to 1,795 in 1983-84, a 4.2% increase and a new record.

►Dramatic growth in the membership of college gift clubs, led by increases of 50% for the Cooper Point Club (gifts of $500 to $999), and the Evergreen 100 Club (gifts of $100 to $249).

►An increase of 22% (from 438 in 1982-83 to 536 in 1983-84) in the number of alumni making a contribution to Evergreen.

►Receipt of more than $140,000 in gifts-in-kind, including two sailboats, 30 computer terminals, a marvelous collection of rare geological specimens, athletic equipment and artwork.

Thank You to all of You—the incredible people and organizations who contributed during 1983-84. Your support makes a huge difference to students at The Evergreen State College.

You Can Give a Stock Certificate to
The Evergreen State College Foundation and Save!

Consider The Evergreen State College before selling your securities—you can save on taxes and invest in Washington's future at the same time. For example, if you paid $500 for stock now worth $1,000, you can avoid capital gains tax on the profit and deduct the full $1,000 contribution.

Invest in Evergreen These Two Easy Ways:

1. If your broker (or bank) holds the certificate—ask your broker to transfer the shares to the account of The Evergreen State College Foundation and await instructions from the Foundation. Send a letter or a copy of your letter of instruction to John Gallagher, Associate Director of Development at the Foundation, mentioning the purpose of your gift, and his staff will do the rest.

2. If you hold the certificate—for maximum safety, send the certificate by regular mail (without endorsing it) to John Gallagher. Under separate cover, mail a stock power signed in blank with a copy of your original letter of instruction.

The Milieu of the Fighting Geoduck

By Cath Johnson, Sports Information Director

From September to May on almost any weekend you can find the Fighting Geoducks squaring off against one of their Northwest opponents, be it the Loggers, the Lutes, the Bucs or even a Saint or two.

As a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), Evergreen competes in District I, a large playground comprised of 14 schools that span three states and a Canadian province.

NAIA schools vary widely both in size of enrollment and in the scope of their athletic programs. Evergreen's crosstown rival, St. Martin's College, has an enrollment of 550 and competes intercollegiately in only two sports; whereas Simon Fraser in British Columbia has around 12,000 students and offers nine sports for men and seven for women at the intercollegiate level.

There are different alignments within District I for almost every sport which can be confusing. In men's soccer, for instance, District I is divided into a North Division of Simon Fraser, Western Washington, Seattle University and UPS, and a South Division of Whitman, Whitworth, Pacific Lutheran and Evergreen. Winners of the North and South play each other for the District title. In women's soccer, however, all the District teams compete in one big group.

Despite their differences, these schools all play by the same rules and, by virtue of their membership in the NAIA, they all share the belief that students are students first and athletes second.

"There are a number of reasons we joined the NAIA," explains Jan Lambertz, Evergreen's director of Recreation and Athletics. "The primary reason, however, is that the guiding philosophies of the organization are in keeping with the spirit of athletics, the values of the college's social contract, and the code of ethics here at Evergreen."

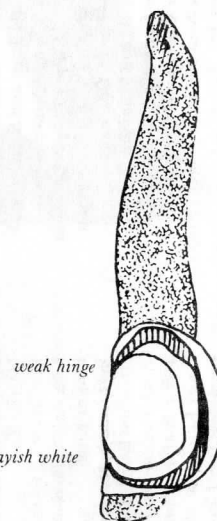

The NAIA is a democratic organization truly run by its membership. Each institution is guaranteed a vote at the national convention, and the NAIA has embraced women as equal partners in decision making as well as competition. Most recently, the NAIA took steps to protect student athletes from abuse by stating their rights and responsibilities.

"By being a member of the NAIA," Lambertz says, "we can provide our student athletes with the opportunity to compete at the highest level while maintaining their primary function as college students."

Two Breeds of Geoducks

Siphon: with which to bore through mud, dark red to dark gray, black tip

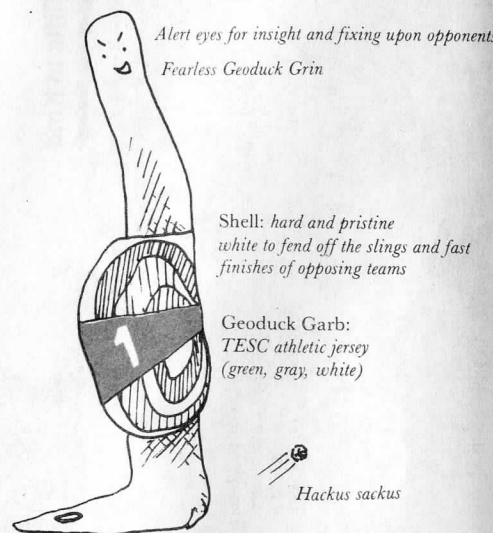

Shell: dull, grayish white

Gweduc
Panope generosa

Habitat: Pacific Coast Basin from British Columbia to California, most notably Mud Bay

The ReView compares Evergreen's Mascot to its real world cousin, the everyday Gweduc of the Mud Bay. When the going gets tough, Gweducs dig in, but Evergreen Geoducks aren't afraid to stick their necks out.

Computer Brain: the ultimate weapon of Evergreen-style geoduck, something heretofore little-used on U.S. fields of athletic endeavor

Fightin' Geoduck or King Clam!
Athleticus academica geoduckus

Habitat: soccer fields, cross country courses, the library, sailing waters, tennis courts, internships on campus and off, swimming pools and generally the cozy confines of Cooper Point.

The evergreen review

The "buzzing" of reporters grew exceptionally loud one September afternoon when a helicopter from KOMO TV of Seattle landed in the field behind the Seminar Building and reporter Mike Nesteroff popped out to do a feature story on Evergreen's reactions to the Birnbach story in Parade for KOMO's evening news.
