800 THURSTON AND MASON COUNTY SENIORS TO VISIT NOV. 15

More than 800 high school students from throughout Thurston and Mason Counties have been invited to participate in the annual High School/College Conference at Evergreen Nov. 15, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Students from North Thurston, Timberline, Olympia, Tumwater, Shelton, Yelm, St. Placids and Mary Knight High Schools will attend three sessions to hear representatives from 13 four-year colleges, three two-year community colleges and two vocational-technical institutes.

Evergreen's Admissions Office is hosting the annual event, which is conducted by the Washington Council on High School/College Relations. The state-wide program is designed to serve the needs of high school students by providing them with information essential to planning their post-high school academic programs.

Colleges planning to participate in the event include: Central, Eastern and Western Washington State Colleges, Fort Wright College, Gonzaga University, Pacific Lutheran University, St. Martin's, Seattle University, University of Puget Sound, University of Washington, Whitworth College, Washington State University and TESC.

Two-year schools planning to participate are Centralia, Highline and Tacoma Community Colleges. Representatives from Bates and Clover Park Vocational Technical Institutes will also participate in the morning conference.

FIRST MAJOR FILM PREMIERE SET AT EVERGREEN TONIGHT

The first major film premiere ever held at Evergreen is set for tonight at 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock in Lecture Hall One. The film, "Rockaday Ritchie and Queen of the Hop" has been released by a major Hollywood studio and is based on the true story of Charlie Starkweather, a murderer who slashed a path of destruction across the mid-west in the early 1950's.

Filmed in Oregon last year, the film was directed by Portland's George Hood, who will be on campus for the premiere to talk about the movie. Following each showing, which will cost $.25 per person, members of the audience will be asked to fill out a short questionnaire about their reactions to the movie, which was brought to campus through the efforts of two award-winning Evergreen filmmakers, Frankie Foster and Richard Speer.

EPIC ORGANIZATION TO PROVIDE POLITICAL INFORMATION

The season of campaigning may be over, but the need for political information is not. At least that's the view of a group of students who've established the Evergreen Political Information Center in the Day Care Kiosk on the main mall of the College Activities Building.

Student Regon Unsoeld says the need for the new service was first expressed at a meeting of the Amnesty International group, which felt that TESC lacked an efficient mechanism for gathering and disseminating politically-oriented information.

Emphasis and direction of the information service will be on international, national, and local politics, according to Unsoeld, not just on activities of the state legislature, as has been the case with previous Evergreen political information groups, such as the Citizens Action Network, first formed during the 1973 legislative session. Unsoeld says the group hopes to schedule speakers and films, prepare reports on political functions, and publicize schedules and activities of different campus groups.

How the center will work will be the topic of a noon meeting Tuesday (Nov. 12) in Library room 1100B. Unsoeld said all Evergreeners and other interested persons are invited to attend.

ANDY RYAN NAMED COORDINATOR OF OMBUDS/ADVOCATE OFFICE; TWO VACANCIES EXIST

Andy Ryan, a fourth-year Evergreener from Philadelphia, has been named coordinator of the newly-established Ombuds/Advocate Office. Ryan, who will oversee the activities of the nine ombuds/advocates, says he is now staffing the O/A office, located in Library 3228, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. His telephone number is 866-6496.

Two positions remain to be filled in the new office: one more ombuds/advocate position and a secretarial position. Ryan said applicants for either post can obtain applications at the Information Center and must submit them to him in person by Nov. 15. The ombuds/advocate position, which is unpaid, requires a minimum of ten hours per week and at least a basic understanding of the Evergreen governance system. The secretarial position pays $2.44 per hour for a 15-hour week. Working hours are "flexible," according to Ryan.

Non-whites and women are especially urged to apply for the positions, Ryan noted.

BILL SMITH APPOINTED TO EDUCATIONAL REVIEW PANEL

Bill Smith, Director of Evergreen's Financial Aid Office, has been named to the Region Ten Office of Education Review Panel, which reviews applications from all post-secondary institutions in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Alaska which request federal student aid funds.

The panel will review applications in Seattle for one week and then send recommendations on to the Washington, D.C. Office of Education for final determination, which will be based on Congressional appropriations, Smith said.

Smith is the second Evergreen Director of Financial Aid to be named to the post. He replaced former Financial Aid Director Les Eldridge, who served on the review panel three times, twice on the Region Ten Board while he was at Evergreen, and once on the Region Nine Board before he came to TESC.

PETER ELBOW SELECTED FOR NCTE COUNCIL

Peter Elbow, an Evergreen faculty member in literature, has been named to an important post with the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE), a professional organization of approximately 130,000 members. Aim of the NCTE, which has appointed Elbow to a three-year term on its Commission on Composition, is to increase effectiveness of teaching the English language and its literature in the nation's schools and colleges.

DAVE BARRY ADDRESSES EXPO SYMPOSIUM; SELECTED TO PRESENT HUMANITIES PAPER

Evergreen Faculty Member Dave Barry, who is also chairman of the Washington Commission for the Humanities, addressed an environmental symposium held in conjunction with EXPO '74 Oct. 25 in Spokane. Barry, a professor of biology, spoke on "Environmental Education: A Philosophical Perspective."

Barry has also been selected to contribute a paper for the Bicentennial Anthology of the Western Center for Program Development in the Humanities of Los Angeles. One humanist from each of 13 western states has been asked to prepare a paper. Barry's paper will concentrate on "The American land in planning for the future."

THREE NORTHWEST ARTISTS TO DISPLAY PAINTINGS NEXT WEEK

Paintings, drawings and prints by three Pacific Northwest artists will go on display in the Evergreen Art Gallery Nov. 11. The artists --- Charles Stokes of Seattle and James Hibbard and George Johanson of Portland --- will exhibit their works in the gallery near the reference section of the Library through Nov. 29. Admission to the exhibit is free.

Stokes, a native of Tacoma, earned his bachelor's degree from Central Washington State College and his master's degree in fine arts from the University of Oregon. He has taught at the U. of O., Kearns Art Center in Eugene, Oregon, the Cornish School in Seattle, and at Casper, Wyoming and Mt. Hood, Oregon Arts Festivals. His works have been exhibited throughout Washington and Oregon.

Hibbard, whose works are currently on display at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., graduated from the Portland, Oregon Museum Art School in 1958. He has also studied in New York, at Portland State University, the University of Iowa and has taught at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio and Portland State. He has also had 16 one-man shows in the Pacific Northwest.

Johanson, a native of Seattle, has won more than a dozen awards for his work and has participated in 23 one-man shows. He attended the Museum Art School in Portland, Oregon, and spent two years studying in England, Italy, France and the Neatherlands. He has also taught printmaking at Louisiana State University, painting and drawing at the Museum Art School, and summer sessions at Salem, Oregon Art Association and Reed College in Portland.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM NINE GOVERNMENTAL AGENCIES HERE WEDNESDAY

Representatives from city, county, state and federal governmental agencies will be on campus Wednesday (Nov. 13) to kick off the first in a series of eight Job Information Days sponsored by the Evergreen Placement Office.

The all day event, which is aimed primarily at providing Evergreen seniors with relevant and useful career information, will begin at 9:15 a.m. on the third floor balcony of the Library. From 10 a.m. to noon, employers will discuss their particular government job market, application procedures and will also answer student questions. After lunch and a campus tour, the employers will stage 15-minute mock student interviews.

Placement Coordinator Gail Martin said participants at the Wednesday meeting will include: a representative from the Federal Civil Service Commission; Tom Gohm, employment counselor for the State Department of Personnel; Jerry Stone from King County; Bruce Alexander, administrative coordinator for Pierce County; George Yantis, Thurston County Commissioner; Jean Hudson, Richland City Hall Personnel Assistant; Aubrey Scott, Seattle Civil Service; A.N. Harvey, Vancouver, Washington City Manager, and Robert K. Williams, Lacey City Manager.

Representatives from business and industry have been invited to participate in the second Job Information Day scheduled for December 4, Martin said.

CURRICULUM TOPIC OF COMMUNITY DAY NOV. 13

Evergreeners will have a chance to discuss the 1975-76 academic curriculum Nov. 13 at an all day Community Day presentation, set to begin at 9 a.m. in room 110 of the College Activities Building.

Academic Dean Willie Parson said the event is the first in a series of discussions on the 1975-76 curriculum he hopes to sponsor this year.

MIME CLOWN TO STAGE EVERGREEN APPEARANCE

Mime Clown Tim Elliott will stage a public performance at Evergreen Nov. 13 beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the main lobby of the Library. Elliott, who has performed throughout the United States and Europe, has been involved with mime the greater portion of his life, and has developed a unique style, totally his own. His performances have taken him to Greenland, Iceland, Newfoundland and Labrador in recent years and, in 1973, he performed before England's Princess Margaret at the Edinburg Festival of Performing Arts.

Admission to the evening program is $1 for adults and $.50 for students. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

CLASSICAL GUITARIST SLATES NOV. 14 CONCERT

Classical guitarist Jeffrey Van will perform in concert at Evergreen Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. in Lecture Hall One. Van, who will be making numerous public appearances in the Olympia area, will also conduct a workshop with guitarists and students composing for guitar at Evergreen Nov. 12 beginning at 10 a.m.

Van began studying the classical guitar at the age of nine with Albert Bellson of St. Paul, Minnesota. In 1964, he attended the Andres Segovia Master Class in Berkeley, California, and he studied with Julian Bream during the summer of 1969.

The guitarist's interest in new music has resulted in his performance of at least one premiere each year for the past five seasons. This year is no exception, as Van is scheduled to perform "Istar Fantasia" for the first time April 8 at the Minneapolis Institute of the Arts. He was commissioned to perform the work by its Minneapolis composer Libby Larsen.

Sponsored by Eye-5, Van's performance on Nov. 14 is free and open to the public.

mushroom hunters ---

HERE'S YOUR CHANCE TO FIND OUT EVERYTHING YOU WANTED TO KNOW BUT WERE AFRAID TO EAT!

A one-day workshop "All About Mushrooms" will be conducted by Carolyn and Alan Much at Evergreen Nov. 16 beginning at 9 a.m. in room 202 of the College Recreation Center. Practical techniques in how to find, collect and identify wild mushrooms will be discussed by the couple, who are currently conducting field research on mushrooms in the Olympia area. Color slides of mushrooms in their natural habitat will be shown, including those of many species that can be found locally.

"The Olympia area abounds with a wide variety of eminently edible mushrooms," Much says. "But, deadly species are also present." He, like many Evergreeners, regards mushrooms as an important food product because, he says, they are high in nutritional value, low in calories and "very delicious."

Tuition for the one-day workshop is $15 and participation from the community is encouraged. Interested persons can register with the CRC Office by calling 866-6530.

AWARENESS WORKSHOP TO EXAMINE ALL ASPECTS OF RAPE NOV. 18-21

A concerted effort to raise the level of consciousness about the problems of rape will be made during a four-day workshop to be held for both men and women at Evergreen beginning Nov. 18. Campus Police Assistant Ann Brown, an organizer of the workshop, said she hopes the presentation --- which will include speeches, demonstrations of martial arts, films, and panel discussions --- will increase Evergreeners' awareness of the problems of rape.

"It's been said that the problem of rape will not be resolved until men and women both have become more aware of its causes and effects," Brown said. "We're hoping to provide an opportunity for everyone to examine all aspects of rape --- medical, moral, ethical, legal and psychological --- and to spark the kind of dialogue that will help all of us better understand the problem, both as individuals and as members of this community."

The workshop will begin at 12:30 p.m. Nov. 18 with a multi-image presentation on "Myth and Stereotype of Rape." Psychologist Maureen Saylor of the Western Washington State Hospital Sexual Psychopath Program will discuss the problem of rape at 1:15 p.m. And, the movie, "No Lies," will examine communications problems which surround such sexual crimes. The movie, scheduled at 3 p.m., will be shown in Lecture Hall One; other presentations will be staged in the main lobby of the Library.

Tuesday's program includes a martial arts demonstration at 10 a.m., followed by a workshop on various aspects of physical and mental defense at 11:30 a.m. and a noon panel discussion on "The Ethical Implications of Rape." A film, "Rape Awareness," will also be shown at 2 p.m. in Lecture Hall Three.

A repeat of Monday's multi-media presentation, "Myth and Stereotype of Rape," is scheduled at 10 a.m., Wednesday, in Lecture Hall One, followed by a noon discussion by TESC's medical doctor, Dave Peterson, and representatives from the Rape Relief Center and the Evergreen Women's Center. Students from the Lawmakers/Lawbreakers Academic program will present at skit at 12:30 p.m., followed by a discussion session.

Thursday, the final day of the workshop, will feature a showing on the Channel 9 presentation, "Report to the City on Rape," and a noon discussion by Jackie Griswold on "Proposed Revision of Washington State Rape Laws." Two afternoon speakers are also scheduled at 1 p.m. to discuss "Rape: What Happens in the Courtroom."

All events in the four-day workshop are free and will be held in the main lobby of the Library unless otherwise noted. For additional information on the Rape Awareness program, call Brown at the Security Office, 866-6140.
