Published by the Office of College Relations/Library 3114

THIS IS YOUR LAST NEWSLETTER -- UNTIL NEXT MONTH

Yes, the Newsletter is going monthly. Starting with this issue, the Newsletter will now come out on the last Friday of every month. The next issue you see will be for the month of March and dated March 25, exactly one month from today.

Although the Newsletter will be seen less often, the Office of College Relations will continue to publish Happenings on Friday of every week, except during quarter breaks and summer quarter. The copy deadline will remain the same as always: noon on Wednesdays for that Friday's publication. All upcoming events -- film, dances, festivals, concerts, plays, musicals, workshops, seminars, lectures, readings, et cetera -- and Special Announcements will appear in Happenings if our office is notified of them by the aforementioned deadline.

Significant news about Evergreen for Evergreeners will be covered on a weekly basis in a new Happenings section, "News Briefs." As the title implies, campus news will be given brief mention in the Happenings, and then receive full coverage in the monthly Newsletter. If you feel you know of something newsworthy and urgent enough to be mentioned in Happenings, please let us know. The same Wednesday-at-noon deadline applies.

In-depth coverage of on and off campus developments involving faculty, staff and students will appear in the monthly Newsletter. If you have information you think should be covered in the Newsletter, please submit prepared copy or contact the Office of College Relations by the second-last Friday of the month. Copy or suggestions submitted after that time can be considered only on a time and space available basis. The copy deadline for next month's Newsletter will be Friday, March 18.

Please let us know about any thoughts you might have on this revised schedule. Your input will be appreciated and should be directed to Mark Clemens, Ken Balsley, or Keith Eisner in the Office of College Relations, Library 3114, or at 866-6000, ext. 6128.

FOUNDATION FUND RAISING PHONE-A-THON DRAWS GOOD EFFORT AND RESPONSE

The Seventh Annual fund raising/informational Phone-A-Thon for the Evergreen Foundation is just finishing its second week and, according to Alumni Coordinator Ellie Dornan, if pledges continue at the same rate as the first week, the goal of $25,000 will be met.

Ellie reports that $9,005 was raised during the first week thanks to a lot of effort and hard work on the part of 44 dedicated students, staff and alumni. "I think the volunteers show true dedication to Evergreen in their willingness to spend their time and effort. "It's above and beyond the call."

The Phone-A-Thon will continue into March.

WRITING SELF-EVALUATIONS SCHEDULED MARCH 3 AND 8

Evergreen faculty member Russ Fox and workshop coordinator Martha West will present two seminars on "How to Write a Self-Evaluation." Sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement office and Academic Advising, the workshops will be held on Thursday, March 3 from noon to 1:30 p.m. in CAB 108, and on Tuesday, March 8, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. in Library 3500.

Subjects covered will include information on how to write a self-evaluation, changing your portfolio evaluation, and common mistakes made in writing evaluations. Fox will lead participants in a writing exercise and then give them a chance to begin drafting their own evaluation. Participants will get the chance to critique sample evaluations. For more information, call 866-6000, ext. 6193.

DON'T FORGET DREAMERS AND SCHEMERS

Some 55 Dreamers and Schemers, who have contributed 10 years of service to Evergreen, will be honored tonight, February 25, with a reception and dance at 7:30 p.m. on the fourth floor of the Library. All week, staff, faculty and students have been voting for the top Dreamer and the top Schemer and those persons will be awarded a special honor.

The evening begins with hors d'oeuvres and liquid refreshments, then dancing to George Barner and the Original Trendsetters. The theme is "Moments to Remember," featuring music from the 50's. All those planning to attend should dress in appropriate attire. Tickets will be available only at the door.

For more information contact Rita Cooper, ext. 6361.

"PIPPIN" COMES TO CAMPUS IN MARCH

The Evergreen State College's production of "Pippin" will be presented in eight performances during the first two weekends in March in the Experimental Theater.

Co-sponsored by POSSCA (Patrons of South Sound Cultural Activities) the production is directed and choreographed by Evergreen faculty member Bud Johansen and musically directed by Evergreen faculty member Don Chan.

The play concerns the adventures of Pippin, the son of Charlemagne, and his search for the meaning of life. This modern musical presents a number of unexpected twists and solicits audience involvement. The Broadway production starred Ben Vereen when it debuted in 1974.

The Evergreen production stars Gwen Haw, Scott Stilson, William Darkow, Johan Hellman, Mary Johansen, Ann Martin, Tom Sanders, Camille Schulte, Doug Ehrmantrout, Ken Glidden, Kenan Kelley, Jill Lounsbury, Debbie Michelucci, Lynda Miranda, Linda Robb, Carly Wand and Greg Williamson.

Costuming is under the supervision of Evergreen faculty member Ruth Palmerlee, while staging is under the direction of Evergreen adjunct faculty member David Malcolm.

"Pippin" will be presented on March 3-6 and 10-13. Evening performances are at 8 p.m., while Sunday performances are matinees beginning at 3 p.m. Tickets are $5 general admission and $4 for students and seniors and are available at Yenny's in Olympia or at the Bookstore.

GRAYS HARBOR SHOREBIRDS SUBJECT OF COLLOQUIUM

Evergreen faculty member Steve Herman will talk about "Shorebird Migration in Grays Harbor, Washington" as part of the continuing Winter 1983 Evergreen Colloquium Series, on Friday, March 4, at 3:30 p.m. in Lecture Hall Five.

Herman, a zoologist, is currently teaching in the "Evergreen Environments, The Nature of Natural History" program at Evergreen.

The Colloquium, which is free, will be preceded by a gathering in the Rotunda at 3 p.m.

MIDDLE AGES COME TO EVERGREEN

A South Sound Medieval Tournament, which will recreate the sounds and sights of the Middle Ages, will be held in Evergreen's Recreation Pavilion on Saturday and Sunday, February 26 and 27, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days.

Sponsored by the Evergreen Medieval Series with help from the Society of Creative Anachronism, the two-day event will feature armored tournaments, archery competitions, board games, costumes, crafts and refreshments. Participants are encouraged to come in costume and some costumes will be available for rent.

Two prize tournaments will be held each day. Armored fighters will undergo armor inspection at noon with tournament competition beginning at 1 p.m. Archery competitions will start at 11 a.m. Merchants will sell handmade crafts and refreshments.

For more information, call 866-6000, ext. 6220.

INDIAN CENTER SCHEDULES MARCH EVENTS

The Northwest Indian Center has scheduled two events for the first week in March. On Thursday, March 3, a Salmon barbeque luncheon kicks off activities for the Lummi Song and Dance Festival. The barbeque begins at noon in CAB 110. It will be held outside on the campus plaza if weather permits.

At 1 p.m., musical entertainment will begin with Samuel Cooney and his "Red Wing Dancers." Work by Fran and Bill James, Isabelle Warbus, Joyce Piel and Mary Helen Cooney will be on display. The festival will also feature a drawing for several prizes including turquoise jewelry, Pendleton blanket and a painting.

On Saturday, March 5, Thomas Banyacya, official Hopi interpreter for the village of Kyakotsmori in Oraiba, Arizona, will speak on Hopi Prophecies. The presentation will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. on the fourth floor of the Library. A donation of $2 is asked and refreshments will be available.

For more information on these events, contact the Northwest Indian Center at 866-6000, ext. 105.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY CELEBRATIONS SCHEDULED

Several events have been scheduled on campus in celebration of International Women's Day, set this year on March 8.

Feminist comedian Annie Gage will begin the celebration with a free appearance on Wednesday, March 2, from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the second floor of the CAB. From 1 to 2 p.m., she will meet with women in the Women's Center, Library 3216.

The Wallflower Order Dance Collective will perform in the Library lobby on Sunday, March 6, beginning at 8 p.m. In their all-new show, Wallflower uses dance, mime, music, sign language and martial arts in an expressive performance combining art and the feminist perspective. Their performance addresses the issues of the environment, self-defense and political awareness. Tickets are $5, more if you can afford it, less if you can't. Advance tickets are available at Rainy Day Records and the Smithfield Cafe.

No time or location has been set yet, but internationally known poet Jessica Hagedorn will appear on campus Tuesday, March 8. Author of "Dangerous Music" and "Pet Food and Tropical Apparitions," she has received excellent response during her previous Evergreen visits.

International Women's Day celebrations are sponsored by the Third World Women's Association, Tides of Change and the Women's Center. For more information, call 866-6000, ext. 6162.

WORKS BY PAUL SPARKS ON EXHIBIT

Recent works in a variety of mediums by Evergreen faculty member Paul Sparks will go on display for one month on Saturday, March 5 in Gallery Two of the Library.

ALUMNI ART SHOW SEEKS ENTRIES

The 1983 Fall Juried Alumni Art Exhibition is seeking entries. The application deadline is May 27, 1983. The Exhibition will open in Gallery Four of the Library during the Alumni Annual Reunion in October, 1983.

Artists working in any media (except film/video) are invited to submit slides of their recent work. The work may be two- or three-dimensional or low relief including: painting, drawing, photography, printmaking, sculpture, fiber, clay, metal, wood, glass, neon or any combination of material.

A prospectus or additional information may be obtained by contacting Gallery Co-curator Petrina L. Walker at 866-6000, ext. 6744.

The Fall '83 Alumni Art Exhibition is being made possible with the cooperation of The Evergreen Galleries and the TESC Alumni Association.

PORT ASSOCIATION TO HOST EVERGREEN GRADUATES ON MARCH 3

A reception, honoring outstanding graduates of Evergreen, will be hosted by the Washington Public Ports Association on Thursday, March 3, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Public Ports office at 15th and Capitol Way in Olympia.

Co-sponsored by the outreach committee of the Alumni Association, the reception will honor alumni who have distinguished themselves by participating in the affairs of state and local government.

According to Alum Robin Torner from the Ports Association, honorees will include legislators, legislative staff, elected officials, lobbyists and state government officials, all of whom are graduates of Evergreen.

"We want to get together just so we can see who we are," said Doug King, chair of the Alum outreach committee. "We may be surprised at just how many there are of us. We hope everyone can attend."

For additional information, contact Ellie Dornan at 866-6000, ext. 6565.

PIECE OF MY MIND SERIES TO ADDRESS ROOTS OF NON-VIOLENCE IN AMERICA

Dr. Don Foran, St. Martin's College professor and Evergreen adjunct faculty member, will address the subject of "Striking at the root or hacking at the branches: The Nonviolent Struggle in America" when the Piece of My Mind Series continues on Wednesday, March 2, at noon in the First United Methodist Church,

Co-sponsored by The Evergreen State College and the First United Methodist Church, Piece of My Mind provides a community forum to explore ethical and moral issues confronting our society.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Frank Brouillet, who was originally scheduled to speak on March 2, will be out of state and may be rescheduled at a later date.

"Henry David Thoreau said that for every person striking at the roots there are 10,000 people hacking at the branches," Foran says. "The truth is that people do have the capacity to not only affect change, but affect change in the heart of their oppressor.

"We'll speak about people who have accepted this and have affected change." Foran pointed to such groups and individuals as Martin Luther King, Dorothy Day, the American labor movement and the women's movement as examples.

Admission is free, and the church will provide beverages for guests who wish to bring brown bag lunches. Questions about the Piece of My Mind Series may be directed to Reverend Paul Beeman at the First United Methodist Church, 943-2661, or to Evergreen's Office of College Relations, 866-6000, ext. 6128.

sports update

SWIMMING AND SAILING TEAMS TRAVEL TO NATIONALS

The Evergreen swim team will travel to Arkadelphia, Arkansas on March 3, 4 and 5 to compete in the NAIA national competition. Evergreeners going include Evetree Tallman, MaryBeth Berney and Austin St. John, who is making his second trip to the nationals. St. John currently holds the 21st best record in the country in the 50-meter freestyle with a time of 22.24.

Meanwhile the Evergreen sailing team will be in Long Beach, California on March 4, 5 and 6 to compete in the 24-foot nationals. The Geoducks will be sailing against such teams as Navy, Yale, the University of Hawaii and the U.S. Maritime Academy.

EVERGREENERS IN THE NEWS

Chuck Fowler, Evergreen's Director of College Relations for the past three years, will leave the college at the end of the month to explore formation of his own communications management firm. Fowler --- who with Les Eldridge and Larry Stenberg developed the concept for the recent merger of the College Relations and Community Relations Offices --- plans to offer communication and marketing services designed especially for organizations and individuals in the Thurston County region. In addition, his plans may include an affiliation with an expanding instructional media firm established last year by his wife, Karla Fingerson Fowler, and Julie Cushman, both faculty members and administrators at Olympia Technical Community College. Fowler hopes to develop a less than full-time consulting role which will allow him to continue his recovery from the slight stroke he suffered last March.

Evergreen's Vice President and Provost Byron Youtz has announced changes regarding Evergreen faculty members.

Dr. Barbara Cooley, head of the Cooperative Education Office, now teaching at the Vancouver campus, has been accorded faculty/staff status.

Two faculty members have had their contracts extended. Judy Bayard, now teaching in the "Society and the Computer" program will teach business and computers next year. Gregory Weeks, now teaching in "Management in the Public Interest" program, will teach MPI and MPA programs next year.

NESBITT MEMORIAL GATHERING SET FOR FRIDAY

A memorial service for Evergreen faculty member Richard Nesbitt will be held at noon on Friday, February 18, in Room 110 of the Communications Building. Richard died from a massive heart attack at his home on Monday, February 14. He would have been 46 next month.

"Richard was one of the gentlest souls here at Evergreen," says Vice President and Provost Byron Youtz. "He was a friend to many. All faculty, staff and students have lost a talented and dedicated colleague."

A Nesbitt Memorial Fund has been established by the Development Office in Library 3103, telephone extension 6565. All funds raised will go to the family, particularly his son, Pan.

A funeral service was held in New York on Thursday, February 17. The family requests that no flowers be sent. Instead, donations can be made to the Heart Fund. Cards and other messages of condolence may be sent to Richard's family in care of his father, Murray Nesbitt, 2020 King's Highway, Brooklyn, New York, 11229.

Richard received his bachelor of science degree from Emerson College in Boston and served as guest lecturer in theater management at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. He worked as business manager, production manager and managing director at theaters in San Francisco, Kansas City and Portland.

Richard came to Evergreen in 1979 as director of the Communications Laboratory Building. He became an adjunct faculty member, teaching stage management and theater production. He ran an audition workshop, and, in 1982, became a full member of the faculty, teaching in the "Foundations of Performing Arts" program. He was also one of the founders of the "Evergreen Expressions" series now in its fourth year, which was responsible for bringing in many significant performing groups to the Olympia area.

He was actively involved in the Olympia community where he was a member of the Cultural Arts Advisory Committee and most recently served on the architectural selection committee and building design committee for The Washington Center.

He is survived by his son, and his mother, father and sister in New York.

TRUSTEES GIVE FINAL APPROVAL FOR REORGANIZATION OF OFFICE OF COLLEGE RELATIONS

Evergreen's five-member Board of Trustees gave final approval for the reorganization of the Offices of Community Relations and College Relations into one unit in the only major action taken at their monthly meeting on Thursday, February 10. Other items of interest discussed were an effort to fund a new gymnasium for Evergreen from aquatic lands revenue, and the continuing negotiations with WashPIRG.

Sue Washburn was confirmed as head of the new, combined Office of College Relations, a position which she unofficially assumed responsibility for on January 3 of this year. The new unit consolidates marketing, enrollment management, public relations, publications, development, institutional research, alumni relations, and graphic design - - all related functions that will work together more efficiently under one umbrella. Formerly Director of Development, Washburn's new, combined title is Director of College Relations and Development.

A separate position to handle some of Washburn's development duties may be created at a later date. The other major personnel change in the new office was the naming of Evergreen grad Stan Marshburn to replace Les Eldridge, former director of the old Office of Community Relations and now Thurston County Commissioner. Appointed to his position in January, Marshburn officially assumed responsibilities as legislative liaison and assistant to President Dan Evans on February 14 after finishing up his job as fiscal analyst for the House Ways and Means Committee of the State Legislature. EVANS, COOLEY TO ACCEPT GRANT CHECK IN VANCOUVER

Evergreen President Dan Evans, Health Education faculty member Dr. Barbara Cooley and a dozen students from the college's Vancouver campus will be on hand at a meeting of the Fort Vancouver Lion's Club on March 4 at noon in the Quay to receive a check for $20,000 from the Metropolitan Life Foundation.

The grant was awarded to Evergreen in December of 1982 to develop a health education program. According to Dr. Cooley, who will serve as project administrator, the grant will be used to design and implement three to six self-paced learning units (SPLU's) that will permit students to learn at their own speed. The units will be used at the Self-Paced Learning Center at Evergreen and at the Tacoma and Vancouver outreach campuses.

The grant proposal envisions the SPLU's being used in existing health-related academic programs, in referrals by professionals and faculty for specific health programs, and by students on their own initiative.

A task force composed of students in "Adult Wellness: Lifestylings," a program Cooley teaches at Vancouver has been surveying students at all three campuses on their perceived health needs and problems. Survey results will be used to select and design SPLU's to meet those concerns during Cooley's spring program at Vancouver, "Program Planning and Evaluation in Health and Human Services."

Evergreen was one of five schools in the country to receive a Metropolitan Life Foundation grant. Some 130 institutions applied. The grant award will be presented to President Evans by Stan Benfell, C.E.O. of western operations for Metropolitan Insurance Companies.

MARYLIN BLACKBURN WINS ALASKA BEAUTY CONTEST

Marylin Blackburn, a senior at Evergreen, was recently selected as Miss Anchorage in the preliminary scholarship pageant for Miss Alaska and Miss America. Marylin, who has spent all four years of her college career attending Evergreen, is majoring in business management and fashion merchandising and is currently working at The Bon in Olympia on a management trainee internship.

A native of Fairbanks, Alaska, she was selected as Miss Fairbanks in the 1979 Golden Heart Scholarship Pageant and in 1980 was a finalist in the Miss Alaska Scholarship Pageant, the preliminary to Miss America. Maryline is no stranger to the local community, as she was third runner-up in the 1982 Miss Thurston County Pageant. In winning the Miss Anchorage competition, Marylin wowed the judges by performing two Diana Ross songs, "Touch Me in the Morning" and "I'm Coming Out." She will leave Evergreen on May 28 to again compete in the Miss Alaska Pageant. If she wins there, it's on to Atlantic City and the Miss America Scholarship Pageant in September.

NEW FLEETWOOD ALBUM TO BE RELEASED

Evergreen Leisure Education instructor Gretchen Christopher Matzen, founder and leader of The Fleetwoods, a double-gold record trio from Olympia, will have a new album out in March of previously unreleased recordings on the EMI America/Liberty Records label. Entitled "Buried Treasure" it will be the 13th album for the trio Matzen founded 24 years ago in high school.

The reorganized group recently performed at the California Exposition at Del Mar and Madison Square Garden in New York in November.

"I've never been more excited about an album," says Matzen, whom Liberty asked to select and sequence the songs, as well as name the album. It features powerful leads by all three Fleetwoods including original material written by Randy Newman and sung by Gary Troxel. Other selections include the new wave "Surfer's Playmate" by Barbara Ellis and the haunting "Man in a Raincoat" by Matzen.

When not performing, Matzen teaches ballet jazz, modern jazz ballet, jazzercise and partner dancing in Evergreen's Leisure Education program.

DREAMWORKS WEEKEND OPEN TO ALL

A two-day workshop and presentation on dreams entitled "Dreamworks Weekend" will be held on the Evergreen campus on February 25 and 26. Sponsored by the Evergreen Counseling, Health and Women's Services Office, the workshop's Friday events will be free, while Saturday's daylong workshop carries a $25 fee.

A "Dream Reflection Forum" kicks off Friday's events in CAB 306 from noon to 1:30 p.m. "Group Experiments in Dreamwork" continues from 3-5 p.m. in Library 2116. Participants are encouraged to bring their wildest dreams, poems, art work or dances inspired by dreams.

Friday evening's events will be held in Lecture Hall Two from 7 to 10 p.m. Evergreen faculty member Dr. Richard Jones, author of "The Dream Poet," will present the topic "Writing - Reflecting on Dreams, Then Writing Them."

At 8 p.m., Seattle educator and therapist Doug Cohen, founder of Dream Psychology Northwest, an educational center in depth psychology, will speak on the topic "Dream Body Work."

From 9 to 10 p.m., Olympia wholistic health practitioner, massage therapist, and dancer Wendy Schofield will talk on the subject "Sonnets, Synchronicity and Sensation."

Saturday's daylong seminar on "Dream Psychology and the Body" will be held in room 307 of the Campus Recreation Center from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The fee is $25. Facilitators will be Cohen and Schofield. This seminar entitled "Mind Body Unit" will explore the relationships between dreams and body consciousness. Participants should wear loose, comfortable clothing and bring a potluck lunch, crayons, notebooks and dreams.

Advance registration is required. For more information on registration, contact 866-6000, ext. 6200.

A DOCTOR SPEAKS ON STAYING ALIVE

Evergreen campus physician Dr. Jim Foss will address the subject of "Staying Alive: Minimizing Risks in Your Life" at 10 a.m., February 22, in room 3157 of the Seminar Building, sponsored by Counseling, Health and Women's Services.

Dr. Foss has been the campus physician for three years and is currently a family practitioner in the Tacoma area. He will focus on individual health from a medical standpoint, including such subjects as looking for cancer signs, prevention of heart attacks and preventative health care and stress avoidance. The lecture is free to all who wish to attend.

VOTE FOR YOUR FAVORITE DREAMER AND SCHEMER BY FEB. 23

If you haven't purchased your tickets for the annual Dreamers and Schemers "Moments to Remember" party set for February 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the CAB cafeteria - don't panic yet. According to coordinator Rita Cooper, tickets will only be available at the door. The $5 charge will allow you to rub elbows with those 55 individuals who have contributed 10 years of service to Evergreen.

It also buys an evening of entertainment with George Barner and "The Original Trendsetters" playing the music of the 50's. Those planning to attend the function should dress in 1950's style.

The top dreamer and schemer will be selected and honored at the party. You can help select the persons who best fit into that category from the "Cavalcade of Stars" listed below. Return your selections to Larry Stenberg in Library 1217 before 5 p.m. Wednesday, February 23.

SOCIAL SECURITY, LONG TERM CARE, FOCUS OF SECOND SHORT COURSE

The second of two short courses, designed primarily for managers, will begin on Friday, February 25, in Library 2221. Entitled "Social Security, Long Term Care, and other issues in Senior Policy", the course will be taught in three sessions by Dr. Russell Lidman, director of Evergreen's Graduate Program in Public Administration.

The course will focus on the soundness of the financial underpinnings of the Social Security System, and will also examine the potential policy shift from institutional to in-home care for seniors. It is designed to provide managers and others involved with the development and administration of social programs with timely information they can use in making policy. Those completing the course will receive one unit of continuing education credit.

The three sessions will be held on Friday, February 25, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.; Saturday, February 26, from 9:30 a.m. to noon; and Friday, March 4, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. Registration for the $65 short course can be completed at the door, although pre-registration is encouraged to guarantee space and materials. For more information or registration forms, call 866-6000, ext. 6192.

UW DOCTOR AND STUDENTS TO HOLD PRE-MED WORKSHOP

Dr. Zenaido Camacho and students from the University of Washington will hold a pre-med workshop for students interested in attending medical school on Thursday, February 24, at 8 p.m. in Library 1214.

For more information contact Jan Drew or Janice Rathbun in Career Planning and Placement, 866-6000, ext. 6193.

TANNAHILL WEAVERS PUT FIRE BACK IN CELTIC MUSIC, FEB. 22

Scotland's Tannahill Weavers will present a concert of Celtic music on Tuesday, February 22, at 8 p.m. in the Library lobby.

This four-member group plays wind and string instruments to produce a rich blend of sounds much like bluegrass or good old rock and roll. According to Roy Gullane, a member of the group, the music they play isn't in the traditional vein of Scottish music. "Purists made the changes," he says. "They took the fire out of the music. We try to get the music back to the people because that's where it all came from in the first place."

Tickets are $5 general and $4 for students and seniors and are available at CAB 305. The event is sponsored by the Evergreen Medieval Series.

"THE CHILDREN'S HOUR" COMES TO CAMPUS

The film "The Children's Hour", based on a play by Lillian Hellman, will be shown on Sunday, February 20, at 4 and 7 p.m. in Lecture Hall One and presented by Tides of Change.

Starring Audrey Hepburn, Shirley MacLain and James Garner, the movie is about two women who run a private school for girls. Their contented world is suddenly brought crashing down when a little girl tells her grandmother that the two teachers are "unnatural". It isn't long before the gossip spreads and pressure builds. Even Miss Hepburn's fiance, town doctor James Garner, is affected. The truth finally comes out, but not before a surprising and jolting ending.

Cost is $1.50, more if you can, less if you can't. Free on-site child care will be provided and the hall is wheelchair accessible.

HOCKENHULL OPENS HER EXHIBIT WITH LECTURE

Recent works by Jo Hockenhull, a member of the art department at Washington State University, will go on display in Gallery Four on Tuesday, February 22 through March 14.

Hockenhull, whose unique art is inspired by X-ray photos, will begin her exhibit with a lecture "Women in Art" on Tuesday, February 22, at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall. Her lecture is sponsored by "Art History - 20th Century Women."

The Trustees heard one of the first reports prepared by Marshburn regarding the possibility of Evergreen tapping revenue generated from state-owned aquatic lands for use in the construction of its long-awaited gymnasium. At present, Evergreen does not receive monies from state-owned timberlands as do the other regional universities, Western, Eastern and Central Washington. By working with a joint committee of the Legislature which is currently reviewing aquatic lands management practices, Evergreen may be able to garner some revenue it could use for Capital improvement projects, such as the gymnasium.

The Trustees also listened to concerns from the President's Cabinet about the proposed creation of a chapter of WashPIRG, the Washington Public Interest Research Group, on Evergreen's campus. The Cabinet summarized its final recommendations by saying any support the Board gives WashPIRG should "allow students a clear choice regarding whether or not they wish to make a financial contribution and establish WashPIRG as an independent chapter free of state board control." Student representatives of WashPIRG asked that final action on their proposal be postponed until the next Board of Trustees meeting on March 10.

S & A OPENS STUDENT POSITIONS, SENDS OUT SURVEY

S & A Board has one position open for a dynamic, self-motivated student interested in government in the alternative mode. If you want to help serve your community and give the S & A Board a better balance between the various student groups, please contact Joel Barnes or Lynn Garner in CAB 305, or call 866-6000, ext. 6220.

The annual S & A Survey is due to arrive in your home at any moment. Read it and find out where some $400,000 of student money goes. Fill it out and return it to CAB 305 or one of the drop boxes by February 25, 1983. The Survey is the best chance for the student body to inform S & A of what it wants.

TWO STUDENT VACANCIES ON ATHLETICS ADVISORY BOARD

The Athletics Advisory Board, which meets regularly to discuss policy and program development in athletics at Evergreen, is looking for interested students to fill two vacancies it has. Students who think they would like to participate are urged to call Athletic Director Jan Lambertz at 866-6000, ext. 6530 or contact her in person at room 302 in the Recreation Center before the application deadline on Monday, February 28.

LIBRARY NEEDS YOUR FILE CABINETS

The library is in desperate need of legal size file cabinets to put pamphlet materials for vertical file resources. Call Library Dean Susan Smith at 866-6000, ext. 6246 if you have such files in your office.

Evergreen faculty member Dr. Don Chan directed a 55-piece orchestra which backed performer and entertainer Steve Allen during the recent opening of the new Pantages Theater in Tacoma, February 12, and drew rave reviews from all present. Dr. Chan also directed the jazz band which backed Pat Finley, daughter of former Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Robert Finley of Olympia. "Don was a standout and clearly the star of the show," which attracted a sellout crowd, including representatives of Olympia's The Washington

Center Board and Evergreeners Richard Nesbitt and Judy McNickle. Olympia performers playing with Chan included Chuck Stentz, Dave McCrary, Karla and Wayne Timmerman and C. Irving Wright.

Tammy Lough, a work study student in the Facilities Office has been counting lightbulbs as part of the college's energy conservation program. Tammy found 117 lights in the third floor lobby of the Library and 146 lights in the hallways of the east wing of the Library third floor. Which brings us to a very important question. How many Greeners did it take to change a lightbulb? Give up? Seven, but each brought their own light bulb and they couldn't reach consensus on which one to use. So, you want one more do you? Seven - three men, three women and one facilitator. Other less wholesome answers can be found in the Office of College Relations.

What do you do with a door prize, when you don't know how to use it? Alumni Coordinator Ellie Dornan recently returned from Spokane where she attended the CASE District 8 conference. Ellie received one of the many door prizes - a football autographed by members of the Seattle Seahawks. "How do you dribble this?" was Ellie's tongue-in-cheek query to members of the conference, one of whom offered her $20 for the flawed "basketball."

Our apologies to Scott Stilson, who has one of the lead roles in the upcoming production of "Pippin." We listed him as a graduate of Olympia High School - which of course he is. But Scott is also an alum of The Evergreen State College, from which he graduated in 1980. Our thanks to Assistant Academic Dean Ron Woodbury for pointing that out to us.

A reminder:

Monday, February 21, is a holiday in honor of the birthday of President George Washington. There will be no classes, unless otherwise arranged by individual programs, and campus offices will be closed. Events still taking place are an EPIC film, "Bush Mama," and a Black History Month workshop on "Black Hair and Skin Care" - see Happenings for details. Happy Holiday!

CHICANO/LATINO CULTURAL EXPRESSION GRANT BRINGS RESULTS

A grant project funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities has produced "an incredible treasury of resources, according to Evergreen faculty member and Gallery Director Sid White.

White made his remarks during a presentation of the project's final report at a meeting of the Deans on Tuesday, February 8.

Funded in June, 1982 by a $15,000 grant, the project compiled a bibliography of Chicano/Latino art and culture; a directory of Chicano/Latino organizations, interpreters, murals and films; and a slide treasury of more than 300 documented pieces of art.

Working with White on the grant were Pat Matheny-White, director of Resource Development and Evergreen faculty librarian who worked with Library staffers Lucy Enriquez and Robert Haft.

White lists ten Chicano/Latino artists and educators as project consultants. The key consultants were: Erasmo Gamboa, historian, University of Washington; and Tomas Ybarra-Frausto, humanist, Stanford University. Gamboa and Ybarra-Frausto have written preliminary texts for the exhibit and catalogue.

"It required a lot of detective work," White says. "Chicano/Latino art was invisible, not to us, but to the Chicano community as well. We received a lot of cooperation from many Chicano organizations."

The next step will come when the results of an application for a $98,000 implementation grant to the National Endowment for the Humanities is known. "We should find out by April," White says.

If approved, the grant would allow the organization of an exhibit which would be shown on the Evergreen campus in August, 1984 for four to six weeks, and then begin travelling around the country - first in the local region - and then to California, Texas and Illinois.

THREE SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE

Friday, April 15, is the application deadline for three scholarships currently available to Evergreen students through the Financial Aid Office.

The Ethel MacPhail Scholarship will be awarded to an upper division (junior or senior) woman student with a strong academic standing, a concentration in a business management related field (business administration, management science, economics, etc.) and a demonstrated financial need. Only full-time students are eligible and there are no residency requirements. The scholarship is for $1,000 for the 1983-84 academic year.

The Edith K. Draham Scholarship, also for the 1983-84 academic year in the amount of $1,000, is available to both new and continuing Evergreen students and based on financial need and a demonstrated ability in fiction writing.

A $500 award for merit, the Carlton Morris Cooley Scholarship is offered for the 1983-84 academic year to a student of senior standing who has demonstrated excellence in writing the English language and accumulated the equivalent of 48 quarter hours of credit in English courses. Preference will be given to students who participate in college governance.

Information and requirements for these scholarships can be obtained at the Financial Aid Office, 866-6000, ext. 6205.

SELF-PACED PASCAL LEARNING COURSE TAKING SHAPE

Computer Services Director Dr. John Aikin traveled to Sacramento recently where a panel of educators from five other schools reviewed the self-paced PASCAL learning course being developed for Control Data Corporation by Aikin, his staff and four students. Aikin says he brought back a list of material to be reviewed. The PASCAL course is currently undergoing testing.

Aikin will soon travel to Minneapolis where Control Data Corporation will take a look at the product. Evergreen received a $125,000 grant from Control Data in March, 1982 to develop the program.

Recently Aikin also published a literary course for the APPLE and ATARI micro-computers for Control Data.

FINANCIAL AID DEADLINE NEARS

Students wishing to apply for financial aid for the 1983-84 academic year at Evergreen should mail completed Financial Aid Forms to the College Scholarship Service by March 1.

Financial aid information and application forms are available in the Office of Financial Aid, Library 1219. The first of two workshops to assist in submission of the application process will be held on Wednesday, February 16, from noon to 1 p.m. in Library 2204. The second workshop will be held on Wednesday, February 23 at the same time and place. Particular attention will be given to common errors and omissions which have delayed processing of applications in the past. For more information call 866-6000, ext. 6205.

PLANNING BEGINS FOR SUPER SATURDAY

The first planning meeting for Super Saturday, set for June 4 this year, got underway Friday, February 4, amidst enthusiasm and confidence. Super Saturday Chair Larry Stenberg indicated that Evergreen has a $4,000 holdover of funds from last year which could go toward some permanent accumulation of materials for the annual event or for the hiring of a name entertainer.

Committee assignments were reviewed, revised and stacked up this way: Entertainment - Ken Balsley, Jim Guilfoil, Kris Liburdy; Recreation and Sports - Jan Lambertz; Auction - Sandy Butler; Leisure Education - Sandy Greenway; Beer Garden - Victor Moore; Arts/Crafts - Earle McNeil and Betsy Bridwell; Children's Events - Wen Yee Shaw and Keith Eisner; Special Kid Events - Jack Carrigg; Special Events - Wyatt Cates, Christine Kerlin, Sue Washburn; Educational Events - Betsy Diffendal; Public Relations - Ken Balsley; Food - Donnagene Ward; and Information Center - Steve Hunter.

Stenberg says help is still needed in many areas but particularly with the Foods and Information Center committees. He read a note from Charlie Teske, faculty member and committee chair for the local musicians union which indicated they are eager and willing to help provide entertainment to the community.

The next Super Saturday meeting is Friday, February 18 from 3-5 p.m. in the Board Room, Library 3112. All those interested in helping should plan to attend.

FACULTY AT WORK TO REDEFINE EVERGREEN APPROACH TO HUMANITIES

Various members of the faculty are now hard at work redefining the future role of humanities in the arts and social sciences at Evergreen. Prompted by a concern that the humanities remain strong at Evergreen, particularly in the face of possible curriculum changes, a group of faculty have met the past two Wednesdays to discuss ways the humanities could be combined with the arts, social sciences, and natural sciences.

"For the first time in quite a while," said Provost Byron Youtz after attending the first meeting, "I felt we were on the edge of a new invention for organizing the humanities at Evergreen so that they could play a more central role throughout the curriculum."

It's possible the European and American Specialty Area will be altered or dropped altogether and replaced by something broader as a result of these continuing meetings which are being led by faculty members Rudy Martin and David Marr. New plans for the humanities and other areas of the curriculum for the 1984-85 academic year will culminate at the Faculty Retreat, April 20-22.

SECULAR HUMANISM ADDRESSED IN "PIECE OF MY MIND"

Evergreen faculty member Dr. Rudy Martin offers a "Defense of Secular Humanism" in the third lecture of the "Piece of My Mind" series on Wednesday, February 16, at 12:10 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church on Legion Way in Olympia.

His talk will focus on "the liberal arts education aspect of secular humanism," says Martin, who was a founding faculty member at Evergreen and served as Academic Dean. After a two-year teaching stint in New York City, he has returned to Evergreen with some reawakened and renewed perceptions.

The "Piece of My Mind" series resumed in January with a talk by Supreme Court Justice Jim Dolliver and continued this month with a discussion of the legislative process by citizen JoTene Unsoeld.

Cosponsored by Evergreen, the series will present two more speakers during Winter Quarter. Admission is free, and the church will provide beverages for guests who wish to bring brown bag lunches.

Questions about the "Piece of My Mind" series may be directed to the Office of College Relations, 866-6000, ext. 6128.

HUMAN HEALTH AND DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOP SLATED

The second of two workshops in the field of Human Health and Development, sponsored by the Office of Career Planning and Placement, will be held on Wednesday, February 16. The workshop, entitled "Vocations for Social Change Careers" will be held in CAB 110 from 1:30-4 p.m.

Participants include: Steve Buxbaum, Farmers' Wholesale Cooperative, Olympia; Matthew Jordan, Puget Sound Conversion Project, Seattle; Wendy Lebow, Oregon National Abortion Rights Action League; Felix LaMar, Common Cause of Washington, Olympia; Cathy Elliot, Hotline coordinator, Washington State Shelter Network, Olympia; Tom Dixon, president, Tacoma Urban League; and Don Comstock, Shoalwater J.O.B.S.

Students interested in finding employment in human services will want to attend. Further information may be obtained in the Career Planning and Placement Office, Library 1214, or by calling 866-6000, ext. 6193.

SENIOR EMPLOYMENT SEMINARS SET

A series of five seminars, designed to assist those seeking employment in the near future, will be offered from noon to 1:30 p.m. in Library 1213 on each day of the week of February 14-18.

Sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Office, the Senior Employment Seminars are designed to assist seniors in gaining necessary skills to get a job.

"It also provides an opportunity to meet other people who are also entering the job market," says Dr. Gail Martin, director of Career Planning and Placement. "They're not just for seniors but we call them that to catch the attention of students entering the job market."

The first seminar on Monday, February 14 will be on writing a resume and letter of application. The second seminar on Tuesday will be on completing an effective application and compiling a credential file/portfolio. The Wednesday seminar will concern itself with searching out job opportunities, while the Thursday seminar will be on effective employment interviewing. The final seminar on Friday will be on applying to graduate or professional school.

All seminars start at noon in Library 1213. For more information, contact the Career Planning and Placement Office at 866-6000, ext. 6193.

CLASSICAL MUSIC TO RING IN RECITAL HALL

The Faculty String Quartet from the University of Pacific in Stockton, California, will give a free public performance on Wednesday, February 16 at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Communications Building.

The event is sponsored by "Experiments in Sound and Image: Roots of Modern Art and Music" program. The Quartet will also present a morning concert at Olympia High School on February 16.

INTELLIGENCE AND FOREIGN POLICY SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION

Evergreen faculty member Dr. Andrew Hanfman will discuss "Intelligence and Foreign Policy" in a free public address on Friday, February 18, at 3:30 p.m. in Lecture Hall Three.

Dr. Hanfman will discuss the need for accurate intelligence information in the formation of foreign policy. He will focus on the American model of intelligence gathering.

"The main purpose of the intelligence community is to gather information which can be used to formulate policy," Hanfman says. "It's only realistic to assume that the intelligence community will provide the best information it can."

Hanfman is a native of Russia and spent 20 years with the Central Intelligence Agency in various capacities. A naturalized American citizen, he has been a member of the faculty at Evergreen since 1972.

His talk is the second in a series of Winter Quarter discussions sponsored by the Evergreen Colloquium. His presentation will be preceded by a 3 p.m. gathering in the Lecture Hall Rotunda and followed by a question and answer period. Details are available at 866-6000, ext. 6722.

WATERFALL, WE THREE, RETURN TO EVERGREEN

The acoustic rock duo of Linda Waterfall and Scott Nygaard will perform on Friday, February 18 at 8 p.m. in the Library Lobby at Evergreen.

Waterfall, praised by reviewers for her "eclectic style and magic voice," returns home from a fall tour encompassing the East Coast and California. She and Scott Nygaard, her accompanist, are working on Linda's fourth album. Her concert promises to be a delightful evening of music blending elements of rock, jazz, blues and folk into a lyrical whole.

Waterfall's concert will be opened by Olympia's own "We Three," an a cappella triad that gained widespread recognition when they opened for Holly Near last year.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or at the Bookstore for $3.50 students and $4 general admission. For more information, call 866-1356.

DREAM SPEAKER HIGHLIGHTS WORKSHOP

"Dream Speaker," a film about an emotionally disturbed boy who runs away from an institution and is "adopted" by an old Indian Shaman who gradually teaches the boy to understand himself in terms of ancient Indian wisdom as he shares the legends and rituals of his people, will be shown on Sunday, February 13 at 3 p.m. in Lecture Hall One.

The film will be shown in conjunction with speakers Mary Nelson, Evergreen faculty member and Colville Indian educator, and Cornelius Bird, education coordinator of Upward Bound at Evergreen.

This is the second in a series of workshops focusing on the causes and effects of violence in our lives and social institutions. The event is sponsored by the Northwest Indian Center, the Counseling Center, and the Respect and Freedom Project. A $1 donation is suggested. For more information, call 352-3814.

SPIDERWOMAN IS COMING NEXT TUESDAY

An ancient Greek play takes on a new twist when the New York theater group Spiderwoman presents "Lysistrata Numbah" on Tuesday, February 15, at 8 p.m. in the Experimental Theater of the Communication Building. This contemporary adaptation of a 2,400 year-old play by Aristophanes explores the power of men over women through song, dance, mime and comedy.

Tickets are $3.50 for students and $4.50 general admission and are available at the Bookstore or at Yenny's Music Store in Olympia. For reservations or further information, call 866-6000, ext. 6070.

DREAMERS AND SCHEMERS TO BE HONORED

"Moments to Remember" will be the theme when 55 Dreamers and Schemers - Evergreeners who have contributed 10 years of service - are honored on Friday, February 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the CAB cafeteria.

Entertainment will feature George Barner and "The Original Trendsetters" playing music of the 50's. All those attending are encouraged to dress accordingly.

Honorees will receive free tickets and the cost for everyone else will be $5 at the door. There will be no dinner served this time but snacks, cold cuts and such beverages as beer, soft drinks, juice and wine will be served.

To make certain that all persons who have completed ten years of service by November of last year are notified, a complete list is included. If your name is missing, contact Rita Cooper at extension 6361.

ANNIE ROSE TO APPEAR AT BEAUX ARTS BALL

Annie Rose and The Thrillers will bring their soulful sounds of 1960s rhythm-and-blues to the Evergreen campus when they perform at the annual Beaux Arts Masquerade Ball on Saturday, February 12 at 8 p.m. in the CAB.

The ten-piece group was recently voted the top club band of the year in Seattle, and was selected the best Pop Rock group at the 1982 Bumbershoot Festival. Opening the show for Annie Rose will be the Olympia band, Missing Links. The event is open to all alumni, students, staff, faculty and guests. Admission is $5. If you have any questions, call 866-6000, ext. 6220.

EVERGREENERS IN THE NEWS

Dr. Russell Lidman has been awarded a Fullbright Senior Lectureship for the 1983-84 academic year. Lidman, who directs Evergreen's Graduate Program in Public Administration, will spend the year in Peru assisting in the development of graduate courses in public administration and teaching resource allocation at either the University of the Pacific or the National Graduate School of Business and Administration, both in Lima.

He'll travel to Lima in September with his wife, Raven and their two children. It will be the second visit to Peru for both senior Lidmans. Russell was there in 1967 to do field work for his master's thesis on economic development; while Raven, who will take leave from her work as managing attorney at the Olympia office of the Puget Sound Legal Assistance, did field work in anthropology in Peru in 1966. Ms. Lidman's grandmother was originally from Peru and she still has relatives living there. A replacement for Dr. Lidman, who has been an Evergreen faculty since 1974, will be named in early April.

Georgette Chun, a counselor in the Financial Aid Office, has been presented with this month's Loving Cup Award by the Evergreen Department of Public Works, a collective dedicated to "the continuing development of community spirit on campus." Georgette was selected because, as the award letter puts it, "when people come in and ask you for help, you will not let them down. Even if you can't get to them right away, you will always get back to them. You are quiet, calm, and work very hard. You have a special talent in finding students work study jobs and for working through trouble and confrontation with the Bureau of Indian Affairs. There is even a story that you are dedicated to the welfare of the students that you have been known to create a job. One example was when you hired a student to do yard work for you when you couldn't find him a job." The award letter went on to say, "We love your spirit and your joy of life. It is a valuable addition to our college both in work and play."

PHONE-A-THON SETS ANNUAL FUND RAISING EVENT

The Seventh Annual fund raising/informational Phone-A-Thon is set to kick off on Monday, February 14, for eleven nights of telephone appeals in an effort to meet the Evergreen Foundation's Annual Fund goal, which this year is $75,000.

According to Alumni Coordinator Ellie Dornan the goal for the Phone-A-Thon this year is $25,000, up from last year's $20,000. "We'll be calling 6,000 parents and alumni around the country in an effort to meet that goal," she says.

One means of improving participation in the Phone-A-Thon is through the challenge process where one group of callers challenges another to see which can raise the most pledges. "The Alumni Association has already challenged the faculty," Dornan says.

The rest of the Foundation's funds will be raised by direct mail appeal and donations. Currently 38 new students on campus are receiving scholarships from the Foundation. A successful fund drive will allow the Foundation to continue providing funds for such needs as art and library acquisitions, student and faculty research, and such student projects and programs as Earth Fair, Bridges and the very successful Summer Repertory Theater.

Volunteers interested in helping should contact Ellie at the Development Office, Library 3103, or 866-6000, ext. 6565. Already the evenings of February 15 and 16 have attracted a large number volunteer callers, but several other evenings still have openings.

INDIAN EDUCATION ADVISORY BOARD APPOINTED

An advisory board, to assist Evergreen in its Indian Teacher Education program, has been appointed by President Dan Evans. The board held its first meeting, Friday, January 28.

The purpose of the board is to suggest curriculum needs and to help recruit Indian students for the Teacher Certification Program that Evergreen operates in conjunction with the University of Puget Sound, according to Academic Dean Dr. Barbara Smith.

According to Lloyd Colfax, visiting member of the faculty at Evergreen, a Makah Indian, and a member of the board, the goals are more than just recruiting. "The board will deal with education, and it will also address cultural problems faced by Indian students," he says. "We want to see if we can increase the Indian population at Evergreen, but one of the real problems is that education frequently separates Indian students from their culture."

Colfax says that Evergreen has the best chance to minimize the educational problems faced by Indian students. "Because of the way Evergreen is structured, it's more likely to complement the Indian style of learning."

The board will hold information sessions in the community to acquaint interested participants with Evergreen and its Indian Certification program. The first public session will be held at Highline Community College in Midway on February 10 at 7 p.m., and will be hosted by Lee Piper, director of Multicultural Student Services at Highline. The second session, set for February 15 at 4 p.m. in Poulsbo, is hosted by Mac Oreiro Jr., Indian education director at the North Kitsap School District.

Members of the Indian Education Advisory Board, in addition to Colfax, Piper and Oreiro include: Willard Bill, supervisor of Indian Education for the Superintendent of Public Instruction; Yne Cantrell, cultural instructor for the Puyallup Nation; James P. Egawa, coordinator of Indian Education for the Tacoma Public Schools; Bob La Fontane from United Indians of all Tribes;

Thelma Marchand from Nespelem; Bruce Miller, Title IV tutor at Shelton High School; Hazel Pete from Oakville; Yvonne Peterson from Shelton; Wally Strong from Toppenish; Mitzie Whitener from Shelton; and Karen Strong from Seattle.

The program is especially encouraging applications from Indians who have been active in classrooms as cultural inspectors and aides who wish to complete their formal training for certification. Whenever possible, participants will be given field placement in schools with significant Indian enrollment.

Students interested in enrolling in the Indian Certification program must fill out a special application form, submit two letters of recommendation, complete Evergreen's regular application process and take the required competency tests. The first test is scheduled for March 2 of this year.

All steps must be completed by March 15 in order to receive a first priority for admission. After that date, students will be accepted on a space available basis. For more information, contact the Admissions Office at Evergreen, 866-6000, ext. 6170.

WINTER ENROLLMENT DOWN OVERALL DESPITE INCREASE IN NEW AND PART-TIME STUDENTS

In spite of a 53 per cent increase in the number of special non-degree seeking students at Evergreen, Winter Quarter enrollment is less than this time a year ago. However, increases tallied in the categories of new degree seeking and part-time students make this quarter's enrollment decline less than half of the drop which occurred in Fall Quarter of 1982.

Winter Quarter enrollment shows 2572 students registered for classes, compared to 2637 for the same period in 1982. Although there are 65 fewer students than a year ago, this figure counters last quarter's trend which saw the headcount drop by 155 students to 2611 total.

"Winter Quarter enrollment is looking very healthy," says Registrar Walker Allen, "when you consider all the factors."

Originally funded for a total FTE of 2555 in 1982-83, Evergreen is now budgeted for an annual FTE of only 2300, following the round of budget cuts and a 15 per cent reduction of funds during 1982. Evergreen's total FTE is now 2302.9 for Winter Quarter, compared to 2435.7 a year ago, still reflecting the impact of four budget cuts on the state's higher education system.

Allen indicates healthy signs are the dramatic jump in special non-degree seeking students from 183 last year to 279 this year, and the complementary 16 per cent increase in the numbers of both new degree seekers and part-time students. New students increased from 172 in 1982 to 200 this winter, helped by increases in enrollees direct from high school and an increase in former Evergreen students returning to school full time.

There are 573 part-time students enrolled at Evergreen this winter, compared to 495 a year ago, a figure perhaps influenced by the students' median age, which went up from 23.5 last year to 25 this quarter, indicating older students may be turning out in larger numbers for courses.

Other statistics show the number of students from minority groups rose from 212 in 1982 to 230 this Winter Quarter, an 8.5 per cent increase. There was also a one per cent increase overall in the number of resident students attending Evergreen.

KAOS GRAYS HARBOR EXPANSION CURTAILED

A $27,000 grant from the National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) to KAOS-FM to expand its service into the Grays Harbor area has been turned down by the college's President's Cabinet.

The grant had previously been approved by the NTIA and the Communications Board but was turned down by the Cabinet "because of the unpredictable availability of other resources needed by the college in tight budget times," according to Dean Larry Stenberg.

Stenberg said that the immediate cost to Evergreen looked minor but that the residual effect on funding was unknown. "We believe that some staffing and engineering costs might be needed in the future," he said.

Vice President for Business Richard N. Schwartz has been in touch with Pacific Lutheran University which operates station KPLU. In a letter to the NTIA, he said that PLU was willing to meet the challenge of the expansion project and that Evergreen would endorse their forthcoming application. In the letter Schwartz said, "Public radio will be well served if you approve their (PLU) willingness to take on the former TESC obligation"

Upcoming events

ROBERT BLY ON CAMPUS FOR NIGHT OF POETRY

Robert Bly, one of America's leading poets, will appear on Wednesday, February 9 at 8:00 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Communications Building. Sponsored by Evergreen's Innerplace and Arts Resource Center, the evening program will feature Bly reading his poetry and then joining Northwest poet Connie Martin in the telling of a fairy story.

Bly, winner of the 1968 National Book Award for "Silence In The Snowy Field," has achieved national prominence for his "rebellion against rhetoric" in poetry and the development of "the deep image." According to reviewers, "he continues to enchant and shake up audiences with his reading with lively dulcimer self-accompaniment often using an array of mythological masks."

Connie Martin, who has toured extensively throughout the nation with Bly, conducting workshops on storytelling and poetry, will also perform readings of her poetry.

Tickets will be sold at the door of the Recital Hall on Wednesday, February 9, for $4 general and $3 for students and senior citizens. Details can be obtained by calling Innerplace at 866-6000, ext. 6145.

SPIDERWOMAN GIVES LYSISTRATA A FACE LIFT, FEBRUARY 15

An ancient Greek play takes on a new twist when the feminist theater group Spiderwoman presents "Lysistrata Numbah" on Tuesday, February 15, at 8 p.m. in the Experimental Theater. This contemporary adaptation of a 2400 year-old play by Aristophanes explores the power of men over women through song, dance, mime and comedy. The plot concerns the women of the warring city-states of Greece who unite successfully to end a war by refusing to perform their "conjugal duties."

The feminist theater group Spiderwoman takes its name from the Hopi goddess of creation who taught her people to weave. Likewise, the cast of five women takes the play "Lysistrata" and weaves into it their own stories to create a new play. Their highly original production makes light of stereotypes as they entertain through a kaleidoscopic range of moods that arouse empathy, understanding and "some good belly laughs."

"Lysistrata Numbah" plays for one show only at the Experimental Theater in the Communications Building. Tickets are $3.50 for students and $4.50 general, and are available at the Bookstore and Yenny's Music in Olympia. For reservations call 866-6000, ext. 6070.

LIVE RADIO IS ALIVE AT KAOS

The "Alive in Olympia" series will present a "live" acoustic concert on Sunday, February 13 as part of the 10th anniversary celebration of KAOS-FM radio station.

The acoustic concert will begin at 7 p.m. sharp in the Recital Hall of the Communications Building on campus, and will be simulcast over KAOS. No one will be admitted once the live broadcast begins.

Two Evergreen graduates and five current students will provide the solo acoustic music. Participating will be: 1976 graduate John Alkins on the piano; 1982 graduate Oscar Spidahl also on piano; and current students Giles Arendt, Kenan Kelley, Paul Prince and Rick Dupea on guitar; and Tak Doke on the fiddle.

Cost of viewing the live performance is $1 at the door or 50 cents for KAOS subscribers. Funds raised will go to benefit KAOS-FM.

MUSIC OF THE ANDES BROUGHT TO CAPITOL THEATER BY EVERGREEN GALLERIES AND HISPANIC ARTS

Music, expressing the spiritual and cultural traditions of the natives of the South American highlands, will be performed by Almandina in concert on Sunday, February 13, beginning at 2 p.m. in the Capitol Theater in downtown Olympia.

The performance will feature both traditional and contemporary South American music. Members of the Seattle-based group are all natives of Chile and Bolivia and will perform music of the Andes using traditional instruments such as the pan pipe, charango, quena flute and bombo.

Following Almandina's performance, a reception will be held in Gallery Four at Evergreen. Sunday is the last day of an exhibit entitled "Latin America: Women as Artists and Artisans."

The public is invited to attend the reception and meet with members of Almandina to view the exhibit. The performance is one of a series of cultural events sponsored by the Evergreen Galleries in cooperation with the Hispanic Arts Committee of Olympia, a community organization dedicated to enhancing awareness and appreciation of Hispanic art and culture. The event is an opportunity for the community to share in the rich cultural tradition of South America.

Admission to the concert is $4 for adults $3 for seniors and students, $2 for children or $10 for a family ticket. Tickets are $1 more at the door. Advance tickets are available at: Rainy Day Records, La Tierra, The Evergreen State College Bookstore, At Home With Books, Aquilar Goldsmith El Dorado, El Serape, Cas Vallarta, Mexico Bonito and Kay's Corner.

For more information call Sid White, days, at 866-6000, ext. 6075, or Jose Valadez, evenings at 352-0278.

COMEDIAN LARSON LEADS THE LAUGHS AT COMEDY NIGHT

Gary Larson, described as an "irreverent, whacky comedian in the manner of Steve Martin and Robin Williams," and winner of the 1982 Seattle Comedy Competition, will headline Comedy Night, an evening of laughs, as part of Winter Festival celebrations on Tuesday, February 8, beginning at 8 p.m. in the Library lobby at Evergreen.

A regular on local television and radio, Larson has also written material for other comedians including Tom Dreesen and Mike Neun, and his gags have appeared on "Dinah" and the "Tonight Show." He has also taught comedy at The Experimental College at the University of Washington.

Larson, called by the Seattle Times, "a master of characterization and quick wit," will appear with his accompanist Gene Oppenshaw on guitar. Opening the show will be Peggy Platt, the hottest female comic working in the Northwest. Second place winner in the 1981 Seattle Comedy Competition, Platt has appeared on numerous television and radio programs, and hosted her own program on KRAB FM, the "Kracked Krab Weekly Comedy Show."

Tickets for Larson's Evergreen appearance are on sale for $2 in CAB 305, or at the door beginning at 7 p.m., February 8. An added feature of the evening will be a happy hour before the show, also beginning at 7 p.m.

Other Winter Festival activities scheduled include: Wednesday Night Films "Images" at 7 and 9:30 p.m.; "The Band Wagon" starring Fred Astaire on Thursday, February 10; and the Friday Night Film "The Shop On Main Street. Cost of all films is $1.50. Three academic dance recitals are slated - on Thursday February 10, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., all in the Experimental Theater.

Festival activities will culminate with the Beaux Arts Masquerade Ball featuring "Annie Ross and the Thrillers" in the CAB on Saturday, February 12 beginning at 8 p.m. Admission is $5.

EVERGREEN UNDER "DANCE ATTACK," FEBRUARY 10, 11, 12

"Dance Attack: An Evening of Experimental Dance Works," the premiere performance of the Evergreen Performing Dance Ensemble will take place Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, February 10, 11 and 12 at Evergreen. The exciting and diverse collection of premiere works by Evergreen dancers and choreographers, under the direction of adjunct faculty members Ed Groff and Karen Scherwood, will begin at 8 p.m. in the Experimental Theater of the Communications Building.

Tickets for "Dance Attack" will be $3.50 for students and senior citizens, and $4 for general admission - sold at the door only. For reservation or further information, call 866-6000, ext. 6070.

CAST SET FOR THE MUSICAL "PIPPIN" AT EVERGREEN, MARCH 3-6 AND 10-13

Gwen Haw and Scott Stilson, two native Olympians, have been cast for the two lead roles in a local production of the musical "Pippin!" which will be performed in the Experimental Theater of the Communications Building, March 3-6 and 10-13.

Gwen Haw, a six-year veteran of the Abbey Players, plays the Leading Player, the Master of Ceremonies role made famous by Ben Vereen in the original Broadway version of this musical comedy. A graduate of Olympia High School, Scott Stilson, plays the title role of Pippin, the ambitious son of Charlemagne. Young Pippin's objective is a search for the meaning of life.

Both Gwen Haw and Scott Stilson were chosen in a two-day open audition at Evergreen by Faculty members Bud Johansen, Director and Choreographer, and Don Chan, Music Director. Other members of the "Pippin!" cast include William Darkow as Charles, Johan Hellman as Theo, Ann Martin as Fastrada, Mary Johansen as Berthe, student Camille Schulte as Catherine, and student Tom Sanders as Lewis. Members of the chorus are Doug Ehrmantraut, students Ken Glidden, Kenan Kelley, Jill Lounsbury, Lynda Miranda, Linda Robb, Carly Wand and Greg Williamson.

"Pippin!" is sponsored by The Evergreen State College, Evergreen Expressions, and POSSCA (Patrons of South Sound Cultural Activities). Tickets are $4 for students and senior citizens, and $5 general admission, and will be available at Yenny's Music and the Bookstore. Reservations and additional details are available by calling 866-6000, ext. 6070, weekdays between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

NOZIPHO GLENN TALK CANCELLED

A talk by Nozipho Glenn on South African solidarity, scheduled for Thursday, February 17, has been cancelled.

OSAKA DONATES WORK OF ART TO EVERGREEN COLLECTION

Tacoma artist Michi Osaka, whose work was on display in the Evergreen Galleries during December and January, has donated one of the pieces that hung in that exhibit to Evergreen.

Galleries Director Sid White reports that Osaka's lithograph and cyanotype, "Reflections," will become a permanent part of the Evergreen Collection, which has accumulated 44 works of art since last June. Of the 44 pieces, all but one are by Northwest artists; and 11 are donations by artists of their own work, while the rest have been offered by collectors. White plans to mount an exhibit entitled "Recent Acquisitions," sometime next year to show all the works in the collection.

Osaka, whose work blends traditional Japanese art forms with new printmaking materials and processes, continues her work toward an MFA in printmaking at the University of Washington.

HUMAN HEALTH AND DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOPS

The Office of Career Planning and Placement will sponsor two workshops this month in the field of Human Health and Development. The first, Career and Graduate School Options in Health and Human Services will be held on Wednesday, February 9 from 1:30 to 4 p.m. in CAB 110. Vocations for Social Change Careers, the second workshop on Wednesday, February 16 will be in Library 2205 from 1:30 to 4 p.m. Students interested in finding employment in these fields will want to attend. Further information and rosters of workshop participants may be obtained in the Career Planning and Placement Office, Library 1214, or by calling 866-6000 ext. 6193.

SPORTS UPDATE: ST. JOHN SHINES, SAILORS TAKE SIXTH IN AFTERGWARD

An outstanding performance by Austin St. John took the Evergreen Swim Team to an overall fourth place finish in the TESC Invitational Meet this past weekend.

St. John took a first in the 100-meter freestyle competition with a time of 49.9 and a second in the three-meter diving competition to give the men's team a third place finish. The women's team placed fourth. Both scores were combined for overall standings.

The Swim Team travels to Corvallis this week to compete in an invitational swim meet at Oregon State University.

The Evergreen Sailing Team competed in the University of Washington Afterguard Regatta on January 29 and 30 against an extremely competitive field of eight. Evergreen placed sixth trailing the University of Washington at the top of the list, followed by the University of Oregon, University of British Columbia, Oregon State University, Lewis and Clark College, Evergreen, Royal Roads of Canada and the Oregon Institute of Technology.

This weekend the Sailing Team again competes at the University of Washington in their Douglas Cup Regatta.

FACULTY RESPOND TO YOUTZ PLAN FOR LONG RANGE CURRICULUM

More than fifty faculty members met with Provost Byron Youtz Wednesday, January 26, in the CAB to express their feelings about plans he has drawn up after reviewing the Long Range Curriculum Disappearing Task Force Report, faculty issues papers, and the results of a faculty questionnaire survey he conducted in December.

Faculty member Mark Levensky voiced the concerns of many when he asked for more clarification and direction from Youtz's plan particularly concerning how Specialty Areas will be reorganized. Levensky said he could discern two decisions made in Youtz's plan: to maintain the Specialty Areas, although the number and quality remained to be determined, and to decrease the number of coordinated studies while increasing the number of courses offered. Levensky stated that Youtz's plan was a "refusal to decide" what the LRC Task Force and then the faculty as a whole were originally asked to determine about Specialty Areas's place and role in a restructured curriculum.

"No one here wants me or anyone else to tell them what the Specialty Areas will be," Youtz said. He thinks final work on redesigning the curriculum must be done in a series of approximations which will climax at this year's faculty retreat, and must continue to be an ongoing process. "We must work very hard at this retreat," Youtz cautioned those present. "I've suggested some Specialty Areas that may need to be replaced, and we need to move together toward that. We must look at the options and we must decide on Specialty Areas before the retreat."

To handle the details of the immediate decision-making, Youtz will soon appoint a study group for review of the college marketing plan, a forum of Deans and Convenors to plan a review of the Specialty Areas which will be conducted in February, a task force to propose plans for reorganization of the Academic Deans' Team, and a task force to propose a possible role for traditional academic divisions within Evergreen's interdisciplinary structure.

SECURITY RESUMES CRIME WATCH PROGRAM

At two in the morning, a strange car cruises suspiciously around the Dorm loop and the parking lots. On another night, a rowdy group of teenagers loiters in the Dorm's social area. Before either of these situations become dangerous, a call is placed on a portable radio to Campus Security and officers arrive to check identifications, question off-campus visitors, and head-off any potential damage, theft or crime.

The person who made the call is a trained member of Crime Watch, a volunteer program on-campus that is beginning its third year under the direction of Campus Security. "The program has prevented a great number of thefts and property damage, especially in the Housing area," says Acting Chief of Security Gary Russell.

Russell explains that Crime Watch training consists of a three hour orientation in surveillance techniques and the use of the portable Security radio. Currently, Russell reports there are 20 volunteers signed up for the Crime Watch program. Ten to 20 more are needed, as the ideal schedule calls for only one two-hour shift per month for each volunteer.

Interested volunteers can contact Crime Watch by calling Gary Russell or Gil Cordova at Security, 866-6140.

LEGISLATOR CONSIDERS EVERGREEN FOR "BEST AND BRIGHTEST"

"In the past I have leaned toward the University of Washington, but I am not hung up on that and I'm willing to shift the focus to The Evergreen State College," said Representative Dan Grimm the Puyallup Democrat who heads the House Ways and Means Committee. Representative Grimm mentions Evergreen in explaining his idea for a school "for the best and brightest" of Washington students.

In a story by Fred Olson of the Gannett News Service (Daily Olympian - 1/25/83), the new head of the House Budget Committee said he thinks the state should single out one of its four-year colleges and try to make it one of the top undergraduate schools in the nation. Representative Grimm claims the Legislature should end its strict policy of financial parity for the state colleges and universities and provide one school with additional money for faculty, libraries and facilities.

Grimm didn't say which campus should receive the extra financial boost, but he thinks the University of Washington and Evergreen are top contenders. He said he would be willing to provide extra money to one of the schools "so the students know the faculty, libraries and facilities they have are among the best in the nation."

Recognizing the state's budget squeeze, Grimm said his drive toward academic excellence could be financed by "redirecting" money already allocated to the state's colleges and universities.

EVERGREEN LANDS $20,000 GRANT TO PROMOTE STUDENT HEALTH

Evergreen has received a $20,000 grant from the Metropolitan Life Foundation for the development of a health education program for students.

According to health education faculty member Barbara Cooley, who will serve as project administrator, the grant will be used to design, develop and implement three to six self-paced learning units (SPLU's) that permit students to learn at their own speed. The SPLU's will use printed materials, computer software, and audiovisual aids to encourage lifestyle practices that promote health. The units will be used in the SPLU Center in the Seminar Building at Evergreen and at the Tacoma and Vancouver outreach campuses.

The grant proposal envisions the SPLU's being used in existing health-related academic programs, in referrals by professionals and faculty for specific health problems, and by students on their own initiative. "Another one of the main purposes of the project," says Cooley, "is to expand the scope of traditional college health education programs to include older, returning students and students of ethnic minority groups. Students also will benefit as grant funds permit the employment of two or more interns as project assistants each quarter."

A task force composed of students in the "Adult Wellness: Lifestyling" program, which Cooley teaches at the Vancouver campus, are preparing to survey students at all three campuses on their perceived health needs, interests and problems. Survey results will be used to select and design SPLU's to meet those concerns by students in Cooley's spring program at Vancouver, "Program Planning and Evaluation in Health and Human Services."

"We want to show that colleges can develop systematic and effective health education programs," Cooley says, "with the resources they have on hand such as students, faculty, Health Services staff, facilities and curriculum."

Evergreen was one of five schools selected from 130 applicants to receive a total of $75,000 through the Student Health Grants Program of the Metropolitan Life Foundation.

special -- FRIENDS OF EVERGREEN GALLERIES SPONSORS ART FILM FESTIVAL, FEBRUARY 5

The Friends of Evergreen Galleries will present a free, day-long film festival on "Art and The Artist" on Saturday, February 5 in Lecture Hall Three at Evergreen. Over thirty films of sculpture, painting, music and dance will be featured, including selections from the highly acclaimed television series, "Ways of Seeing." Showings will begin at 10:00 a.m. and run to 10 p.m.

Faculty member Earle McNeil reports that schedules and information will be posted this week, and he will be happy to provide further details at 866-6000, ext. 6702.

UNSOELD DISCUSSES ETHICS OF LEGISLATIVE PROCESS

Citizen lobbyist Jolene Unsoeld will discuss the question "The Legislative Process: Is It Ethical?" in the second talk of the "Piece of My Mind" series on Wednesday, February 2, at noon at the First United Methodist Church on East Legion Way in Olympia.

The "Piece of My Mind" series, which got underway in January with a talk by State Supreme Court Justice Jim Dolliver, was organized to "offer a community forum to explore ethical and moral issues which confront today's society," says Reverend Paul Beeman, who hosts the series. Admission is free to the series, which is cosponsored by Evergreen and takes place at noon on alternate Wednesdays during Winter Quarter. The church will provide beverages for guests who wish to bring brown bag lunches.

Unsoeld, who has lobbied in Olympia on behalf of citizen and consumer issues for better than ten years, will focus on the customary and easily recognizable forms of the legislative process, as well as those forms not so readily visible.

"We'll examine," she says, "how the process actually works." To do so, Unsoeld will draw on her past experience working with state government to ensure open meetings and access to public records. An initiative she and others promoted was eventually passed into law as the Public Disclosure Act in 1972. Unsoeld used information provided by the Act to write two booklets, both titled "Who Gave? Who Got? How Much?," which summarized the contributions of the 50 most vested interest groups in Washington State to the elected representatives of the 1974 and 1976 Legislatures, respectively.

More recently, Unsoeld has been active with energy and environmental issues including the utility rate-setting process and prohibiting utilities from charging ratepayers for lobbying and entertainment expenditures.

Unsoeld will conclude her talk at 12:50 with a period for questions and answers. Her presentation will be followed by three others this quarter. Evergreen faculty member Dr. Rudy Martin will offer "A Defense of Secular Humanism" on February 16; State Superintendent of Public Instruction Frank Brouillet will discuss "Private School Growth: A Threat to Public Education?" on March 2; and on March 16, Saint Martin's professor Dr. Don Foran will analyze the "Nonviolent Struggle in America."

Questions about the "Piece of My Mind" series may be directed to Reverend Beeman at the First United Methodist Church, 943-2661, or to Mark Clemens at Evergreen's Office of College Relations, 866-6000, ext. 6095.

THE ORIGINAL "SEVENTH SON" COMES TO CAMPUS

Mose Allison, the New York jazz/blues pianist who has created, according to critics, "a musical territory all his own," will perform at Evergreen on Thursday, February 3, at 7:30 and 9 p.m. in the Recital Hall.

Schooled in English Literature, but raised on Southern blues, the Tippecanoe, Mississippi-born Allison names Duke Ellington, Theolonius Monk and John Lee Hooker among his influences, while many of today's younger pop stars salute his impact on their work. In addition to classics like "Seventh Son" (his signature song) and "You Are My Sunshine," Mose also performs his own famous compositions such as "Parchman Farm," "Your Mind Is On Vacation," and "I Don't Worry 'Bout A Thing," as well as works by Willie Dixon, Hank Williams and Percy Mayfield. His music has also been recorded by such popular artists as Leon Russell, The Who, The Yardbirds and Bonnie Raitt.

After performing in the Southeast during the early 50s, Allison gravitated toward New York's sophisticated jazz scene and took up temporary residence as a sideman for Al Cohn-Zoot Sims, Stan Getz and Gerry Mulligan. In 1957 he struck out on his own and rose to national prominence with the release of his legendary "Back Country Suite" album.

Since then he has released more than 20 albums, and has been acclaimed by reviewers as "more than a bluesman, more than a jazzman; he's an all-around musician with a flair for blending nonsense philosophy and big-city sophistication into a distinctive personal brew...his notes and themes conform to nothing but natural breathing and inner energy."

Advance tickets for Allison's performances can be purchased at Crackers Restaurant, Rainy Day Records, D.J.'s Sound Center in Lacey and the Campus Activities Office, CAB 305, for $5 students and senior citizens and $6 general. Tickets will also be sold at the door of the Communications Building for $1 more beginning at 7 p.m., February 3.

Details and further information can be obtained from the Campus Activities Office, 866-6000, ext. 6220.

MPA SHORT COURSES FOCUS ON REGIONAL ECONOMY, SOCIAL SECURITY

Two of the hottest policy issues facing Washington state will be addressed in a pair of short courses coordinated by Evergreen's Graduate program in Public Administration. The first course, to be taught by consulting economists Malcom McPhee and Dr. Richard Conway, will examine how a state or regional economy operates, while faculty member Dr. Russell Lidman will analyze the Social Security system and evaluate proposed alternatives and remedies in the second course.

"Regional Economic Development and the Public Manager," beginning on February 9, will utilize contemporary models to focus on the factors that trigger an area's growth or decline. According to McPhee and Conway, specialists in regional economic analysis and development, this course is designed to aid the manager or the concerned citizen in setting out and evaluating developmental tasks for their organization.

The second course, "Social Security, Long Term Care and Other Issues in Seniors Policy," will address the many questions that are being raised state- and nationwide concerning the soundness of the financial underpinnings of Social Security. The course will also examine the potential policy shift from institutional to in-home care for seniors, and is designed for managers and others involved with the development and administration of social programs.

Sessions for the courses are scheduled for:

"Regional Economic Development"

Wednesday, February 9, 6:30-9:30 p.m.
Wednesday, February 16, 6:30-9:30 p.m.; and
Friday, February 18, 6:30-9:30 p.m.

"Social Security"

Friday, February 25, 6:30-9:30 p.m.
Saturday, February 26, 9:30-noon; and
Friday, March 4, 6:30-9:30 p.m.

Classes will be held in the Evans Library, room 2221.

Registration will be accepted at the door prior to the first session in each series; however preregistration is encouraged in order to guarantee space and materials. Cost for "Regional Economic Development and the Public Manager" is $75, while "Social Security, Long Term Care, and Other Issues in Seniors Policy" carries a $65 fee. Further details and registration forms can be obtained from Conference Services, 866-6000, ext. 6192.

PINK FLOYD FILM TO BE SHOWN

A full length film featuring the legendary rock group "Pink Floyd" will be shown on Saturday February 5 in Lecture Hall One at Evergreen. Set in an amphitheater in the ruins of Pompeii, the captivating music of Pink Floyd is matched by a stunning visual imagery.

Sponsored by Evergreen's Promotion, Production and Performance program, the film will be shown at 7 and 9:30 p.m. and carries a $2 admission charge, payable at the door. For more information, call Gary Vaughn at 786-1126.

EVERGREENERS IN THE NEWS

Your TESC Bookstore staff is proud to welcome Denis Snyder as the new bookstore director on Tuesday, February 1. All Evergreeners are invited to an open house from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to meet Denis. Coffee, punch and conversation will be abundant.

Arts faculty member and Director of the Evergreen Galleries Sid White is going to have to get some new tires for his Toyota station wagon. Last weekend he traveled east of the mountains to Yakima where he juried the Central Washington Arts and Crafts Show, and this weekend he'll journey north to Seattle for the first of many planning meetings for this fall's Western Museum Conference.

TRUSTEES GIVE UNION CONTRACT CONDITIONAL RATIFICATION

The Board of Trustees ratified the contract with the campus local of the Washington Federation of State Employees, contingent on two changes being made; and approved a proposed salary distribution method for exempt employees and faculty members during their monthly meeting Thursday, January 13.

Trustees referred the contract back to the union with two requests: that the contract period be reduced from two years to one year, and that language referring to parties outside the contract be deleted from Article 15, item II, which concerns employee parking. If the union states acceptance of these two changes, the Trustees' motion implies ratification of the contract on behalf of the college without further action.

Trustees approved a formula for distributing the $96,000 available for salary increases, which awards 3 percent raises to exempt employees who (a) perform well according to an annual evaluation, (b) have been in their current position for at least 12 months prior to January 1983, and (c) have not received a merit raise since the last legislative increase in October 1981. Approximately $8000 in extra funds will be placed in a special bonus category and awarded to exempt employees based on their achievement. The Board also approved a revised faculty schedule incorporating a 3 percent increase and extending experience years from 29 to 35.

In other action, Trustees approved revisions of the college's Facilities Use Policy, deferred approval of a proposed reorganization of College and Community Relations until their February meeting, and requested a recommendation from Evergreen administrators on the proposed campus chapter of WashPIRG, the Washington Public Interest Research Group, before placing it on the agenda for action.

The Trustees will meet next on Thursday, February 10 in room 3112 of the Evans Library.

STRASSER TO DISCUSS HER BOOK ON HOUSEWORK: "NEVER DONE"

"I really wanted to write a book that was going to celebrate dead housewives and dead cleaning women in the same sense that most history books celebrate dead presidents and kings," says Susan Strasser, faculty historian at Evergreen; and now she's done it in Never Done: A History Of American Housework.

Strasser will discuss her new book in a lunchtime talk on Wednesday, January 26 in room 110 of the College Activities Building. Published in May by Pantheon, Never Done has since been critically acclaimed in newspaper reviews from coast-to-coast, including The Nation, The New Yorker, Ms. Magazine, and the Los Angeles Times Book Review; acclamation well-deserved because Strasser's book is the culmination of 14 years of work, beginning when she was an undergraduate at Reed College.

"Originally, I was interested in the literature of advice to American women during the mid-nineteenth century," says Strasser, "but in studying cookbooks, etiquette books, women's magazines and household manuals, I discovered I wanted to know what women did, not merely what they were told to do."

Strasser's talk about what she discovered begins at noon, Wednesday, and is sponsored by the Evergreen College Community Organization (ECCO). Guests are welcome to bring a sack lunch, or purchase lunch in the cafeteria before 11:45 a.m. Reservations may be made by calling College Relations, 866-6000, ext. 6128.

WEDNESDAY WORKSHOP EXPLORES WAYS TO WORK FOR THE ENVIRONMENT

Representatives from six non-profit organizations will meet with Evergreen students Wednesday, January 26, to discuss ways to channel personal interest in social change and the environment in an "After Evergreen: Working for the Environment Workshop."

Sponsored by the Office of Career Planning and Placement, the afternoon workshop begins at 1:30 Wednesday in room 2205 of the Library, and will feature at least six "agents of social change" who will talk with students who are career- or volunteer-oriented about how to act on a personal commitment to the environment.

Confirmed participants will be David Ortman from Friends of the Earth; Jack Davis from the Olympia Audubon Society; Chris Chapman, a lobbyist for Washington Citizens for Recycling; Andy Kahan from the public interest group, WASH-PIRG; Pam Crocker-Davis, a lobbyist for the Seattle Audubon Society; and Flo Brodie, former advocate for the Nisqually Delta Association. Other possible participants include representatives from the Sierra Club in Seattle, the Energy Site and Facilities Commission and the Washington Conservation Commission. For more details, call 866-6000, ext. 6193.

ASSERTIVENESS TRAINING SCHEDULED FOR WINTER QUARTER

An Assertiveness Training (AT) group will begin meeting Thursday, January 27 in Library 2205 from 3 to 5 p.m. The free training sessions, which will be cooperatively conducted by Key-Special Services and the Counseling Center, are open to all Evergreen students. The training is designed, says KEY Student Development Specialist Jeff Hamley, "to increase students' ability to stand up for personal rights and to express thoughts, feelings and beliefs in direct, honest and appropriate ways."

The training will consist of an introduction and six sessions to be held on consecutive Thursdays over seven weeks, beginning January 27 and ending March 10. For more information, call Jeff Hamley of KEY (Keep Enhancing Yourself) at 866-6000, ext. 6464.

PLANNERS WANTED FOR AUGUST ELDERHOSTEL

For the first time, Evergreen will participate in the nationwide Elderhostel program, which conducts week-long, residential, academic programs for senior citizens.

This year, Evergreen is one of 13 institutions sponsoring 34 weeks of Elderhostel in Washington, offering a variety of courses and extracurricular activities.

In order to plan for the first session, August 7-14, Elderhostel Campus Director Betsy Bridwell is organizing an advisory committee which will begin meeting in February. Committee members will meet approximately once a month until August, and will also assist during the week of Elderhostel. Any faculty, staff, or students interested in serving on the committee should contact Bridwell as soon as possible at 866-6000, ext. 6128.

FORMATION OF DISABLED STUDENTS COMMISSION TO BE DISCUSSED WEDNESDAY

Handicap Access and Services is inviting all interested students, staff, and faculty to attend an open discussion on establishing a Disabled Students Commission at Evergreen. The meeting, to be held in Library 2128 on Wednesday, January 26, at 3 p.m., will focus on goals, guidelines and functions of such a commission. "Hopefully," says Nash Perkins, student coordinator of Handicap Services, "we will generate enough information and interest to lead to the establishment of an active Commission before the end of Winter Quarter."

For more information, call Handicap Access and Services at 866-6000, ext. 6361.

SEVEN-WEEK SERIES WILL FOCUS ON ELIMINATING SELF-DEFEATING BEHAVIOR

Counseling, and Health and Women's Services will sponsor a seven-week "Workshop to Eliminate Self-Defeating Behavior," beginning on Wednesday, January 26, from noon to 1 p.m. The workshop is a structured process designed to provide a person with the tools to eliminate specific self-defeating behaviors that work against them. Eliminating self-defeating behavior enhances an individual's ability to realize the potential of his or her life.

Each of the seven Wednesday meetings will last one hour and pre-registration is required. Registration will be through Counseling, and Health and Women's Services, and there are no fees involved. For further details, contact Counseling Services at 866-6000, ext. 6200.

HARLEM PROFESSOR, BLACK ARTISTS SET TO OPEN BLACK HISTORY MONTH

Black History Month kicks off activities during the last week of January with the appearance of George Simmons, professor at Malcolm King University, Harlem, New York, and president of Alkebulan Foundation, an organization which was founded to promote Black nationalism. A master logician, Professor Simmons will hold a series of lectures on philosophy, logic and black issues. He will be in the Olympia-Tacoma area January 24-29, speaking to and working with the Tacoma Urban League on Tuesday. On Wednesday, he will work with students on the main campus at Evergreen during the day, and will be at Evergreen's Tacoma campus all day Thursday and Thursday night. For specific time and locations regarding Professor Simmons' visit, contact the UJAMMA Office at 866-6000, ext. 6781.

The second event of Black History Month occurs Saturday, January 29, when Black artists Robert Lloyd and George Cook lecture in the Recital Hall in the Communications Building from 3 to 4 p.m. Lloyd, chairman of the Art Department at Eastern Washington University and owner/director of Lloyd Gallery in Spokane, and Cook, a Seattle painter and graphic designer, will talk about their own style of art and show slides of other black artists in the Northwest. A reception follows in Gallery II of the Library. For further details on all upcoming Black History Month events, contact the UJAMAA Office at 866-6000, ext. 6781.

WOMEN'S SELF DEFENSE WORKSHOP OFFERED

A weekend workshop on self-defense for women of all levels of physical ability will be held at Evergreen Saturday and Sunday, February 5-6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Co-sponsored by Tides of Change and F.I.S.T. (Feminists in Self-Defense Training), the two-day instruction will cover such areas as self-esteem and confidence building, assertiveness skills, awareness and planning for safety, and physical techniques and tactics.

Open to all interested Evergreen and community women, the workshop requires pre-registration, which will take place on Thursday, January 27 from noon-1 p.m. and from 5-7:30 p.m. at the Evergreen Women's Center, Library 3216. Cost of the workshop will be determined by a sliding scale based on income, and free childcare will be provided if prearranged. Location and specific details regarding the workshop will be available during pre-registration. Further information can be obtained by calling 754-6332.

PAINTING OF HILLAIRE PRESENTED TO THE COLLEGE

A painting of former faculty member Mary Ellen Hillaire, who died last October, was formally presented to the faculty last Wednesday, January 12, in a ceremony in the Campus Activities Building. Done on a 2½' x 4' banner by artist Mag E. McCreery, a former student of Hillaire's, the colorful painting depicts Hillaire surrounded by other students and faculty of the Native American Studies program, including faculty members David Whitener, Rainer Hasenstab and Lloyd Colfax. The painting will be officially presented to the college as a whole, represented by President Dan Evan in a ceremony on Tuesday, January 25.

LITTLE WIND FOR THE WINDJAMMER REGATTA; HUSKIES WIN TRIP TO NEW ORLEANS

Fighting fog, drizzle, and light wind, Evergreen's sailing team came up short in the Windjammer Eliminations Regatta last Saturday and Sunday, finishing second in their bid to win a trip to the national championships in February in New Orleans.

The University of Washington took first place with a low total of 19 points as they won seven out of 12 races. The Geoducks tallied 31 points with Regatta Captain Eric Noyd and Gordon Smith grabbing one first place and three second places in A Fleet competition, and Rick Baldwin and Jamie Stewart taking one first and one second in the B Fleet. The University of Oregon finished a close third with 34 points, followed by Lewis and Clark with 47 points, and Oregon State University with 55 points. Lewis and Clark was given the "Spirit of the Regatta" award for the gutsy performance of their two-woman crew who ran in all 12 races.

On the lighter side, a good time was had by all as more than 60 competitors and members of the college and the community turned out on Saturday of the Regatta weekend for an evening of sailing films at the Organic Farmhouse. The Geoduck sailing teams will be on the road the next three weekends, traveling to the University of British Columbia in Vancouver for the Winter Regatta January 22 and 23; the University of Washington for the Afterguard Regatta, January 29 and 30; and UW again for the Douglas Cup, February 5 and 6.

EVERGREENERS IN THE NEWS

Evergreen freshman Dean Batalie of Tacoma was happily surprised Monday morning to learn he was the winner of the national March For Life Poetry Contest, and, moreover, that he will be honored at festivities to be held in that "other Washington" - Washington D.C. - this very weekend, January 21 and 22. Batalie is busy preparing for an 8:40 a.m. Friday morning flight, and is looking forward to a Saturday evening banquet with Senators Henry Hyde and Jesse Helms and other members of the U.S. Congress. Batalie's award includes his free trip to the nation's capitol, $100 to donate to the pro-life group of his choice, and publication of his prize-winning poem.

Willie Parson, faculty biologist, has been appointed to serve on the Regional Task Force for Minority Students in the Health Sciences, which will work to promote enrollment and retention of minority students in professional health schools. The Task Force was organized by the Northwest Chicano Health Careers Opportunity Program (HCOP), and has its first meeting Monday, January 24, at the University of Washinton.

Ken Balsley, a 1973 Evergreen graduate, has been selected as temporary Information Specialist to help replace Director of Information Services and Publications Judy McNickle during her six-month stint with the Washington State Senate Democratic Caucus. Balsley, who currently is with the Public Affairs Office at the Department of Transportation in Olympia, will work the news bureau in McNickle's absence, a job to which he brings experience as editor of the Lacey Leader, news director for KITN Radio, and journalism instructor at Olympia Technical Community College and Evergreen.

Faculty member Don Chan seems to be doing double duty these days. Aside from his normal classroom activities, he's preparing the musical arrangements for a Miss Alaska contestant, playing for Barbara McNain in a Seattle concert, and getting ready to musically direct and conduct the opening night concert for the Pantages Theater in Tacoma, February 12, featuring Pat Finley, The Joffery Ballet Co., and Steve Allen, which leaves just enough time to present the musical production of "Pippin!" at Evergreen, March 3-6 and 10-13

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT CONFERENCE: A FIRST STEP TOWARD SOLUTIONS

Some first steps toward finding suitable potential solutions to Washington's economic crisis will be taken January 13 when Evergreen opens a conference focused on "economic development and jobs" in this state. The session, sponsored by Evergreen's masters degree program in public administration is not designed to offer "quick fixes to this state's economic woes," says conference organizer Dr. Kenneth Dolbeare.

Instead, the Evergreen political science professor says, "we'll begin focusing public attention on economic issues facing this state --- and try to start the process of developing creative and effective means for desirable, long-term economic development."

To reach that goal, the M.P.A. sponsors believe the public must be involved along with the decision makers and practitioners. "The process of revitalizing our economy will necessarily involve value choices which will lead to alternative futures for this state and region," Dr. Dolbeare explains. "These choices must not be left only to those at the practitioner or technical level; they must be made in a way that is consistent with our democracy and that reflects the values of our local citizens."

DR. GROSS LECTURES THURSDAY

To launch that public discussion, the M.P.A. program has enlisted professor emeritus Dr. Bertram Gross of the City University of New York to deliver the conference's first keynote address Thursday night beginning at 8 o'clock in Lecture Hall Three. Dr. Gross, a public policy advisor who drafted the major national statutes that define the federal government's role in the economy, will discuss "Citizen Rights to Jobs and Income in Future U.S. Economy." The former executive secretary of the President's Council of Economic Advisors is also expected to talk about issues he raises in his latest book: "Friendly Fascism: The New Face of Power in America."

The conference formally begins at 9 a.m. Friday with a full schedule of speeches, panel discussions and workshops expected to attract governmental leaders, economists, historians and representatives from all levels of business to Evergreen's campus. The state's economy will first be examined by Evergreen faculty economist Dr. Russell Lidman. David Weig, state economist for the Office of Financial Management, and Lynn Michaelis, chief economist for Weyerhaeuser.

Two governmental leaders from California --- Director of the Office of Economic Development Michael Kieschnick and Director of Pension Investment Nathan Gardels --- will lead discussions on economic innovations developed in other states and respond to questions from a panel of Washingtonians. Possible alternatives for this state will then be examined by a panel, including economists L. Charles Miller of Seattle, Malcolm McPhee of Olympia and William Lotto of the Thurston County Economic Development Council.

SKID ROAD AUTHOR TO SPEAK

Saturday's activities will open with an historian's panel chaired by Seattle journalist Shelby Scates. Titled "Washington and Hard Times," this discussion will focus on the creative economic and political innovations citizens employed during periods such as the Great Depression to collectively improve their difficult economic situations. Participating in that talk will be noted authors Murray Morgan (Skid Road, Puget's Sound) and Dan Chasen (The Waterlink, Up For Grab) and Evergreen faculty historians Dr. Susan Strasser (Never Done: A History Of American Housework) and Dr. Tom Rainey.

The second major keynote address is set for 11 a.m. Saturday when California economist and planner Derek Shearer will offer his views on "The Political Imperatives of Economic Democracy." Shearer who recently coauthored "Economic Democracy: The Challenge of the 1980s," is the husband of Santa Monica Mayor Ruth Goldway, whose administration has attracted national attention for its progressive innovations.

The conference will conclude with a series of afternoon workshops devoted to "the ways and means of economic development."

Washington leaders will join local citizens, students and other conference participants to examine possible development tools such as economic development districts, cooperatives and community development corporations. Discussion will also focus on ways to finance economic growth, including creation of a state bank, attraction of venture capital, and proposed uses of public employees pension funds.

State and local planning and coordination needs will also be discussed, along with identification of educational and training requirements for a revitalized state economy.

The session will close with an examination of "agendas for future discussions and actions," which Dolbeare predicts will be considered at a number of other conferences on state economic revitalization scheduled within the next few months.

Admission to the conference is free to students, $10 to others. All participants will receive background papers prepared by Evergreen's M.P.A. students and faculty, including a monograph Dolbeare has just completed which analyzes past, present and possible future state roles in economic development. His paper and the conference are supported in part by a grant from the Kettering Foundation.

Additional details and a complete agenda for the conference are available through the M.P.A. office, 866-6000, ext. 6385, weekdays.

TRUSTEES TO CONSIDER UNION CONTRACT, REORGANIZATION AGAIN THURSDAY

Evergreen's five-member Board of Trustees will reexamine the proposed contract with the campus local of the Washington Federation of State Employees, further discuss the proposed reorganization of the Offices of College and Community Relations, and conduct a public hearing on a facilities use policy beginning at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, January 13 in room 3112 of the Library.

Consideration of the union contract follows an on-campus vote December 16 that attracted 174 of 182 eligible voters and drew a 65% yes vote for a union shop. That vote, which has been certified by the Higher Education Personnel Board, covers "classified employees allocated to non-supervisory classes and permissive supervisory classes..." as detailed in the contract. It means that all those employees covered in the contract are "required, as a condition of employment, to become members of the WFSE within 30 calendar days of the election --- January 15, 1983, or within 30 calendar days of the beginning of their employment, whichever is later."

If the Board ratifies the contract Thursday, it will govern the activities of all affected employees; if the Board does not ratify the contract, it will be returned to the negotiating table.

Also facing trustees Thursday is consideration of a proposed combination of the Offices of College and Community Relations. President Dan Evans has already asked Development Director Lu Washburn to assume responsibilities as director of the combined unit, which she began doing January 3. Evans also selected Evergreen graduate Stan Marshburn (see following story) to accept a redefined role as assistant to the president, which will include responsibilities for legislative relations and on-campus governance issues.

The Board is also expected to discuss a proposed association with WASHPIRG, the Washington Public Interest Research Group. Student Annette Newman is scheduled to outline the benefits of the non-profit corporation which seeks to "articulate and pursue the concerns of (college and university) students on issues of general public interest," such as consumer education, environmental quality, human rights, energy and community affairs. It is separate from the newly formed Washington Student Lobby, which seeks to present student interests before the state legislature on such issues as tuition and fees, and residency requirements. At Evergreen WASHPIRG would seek funding through a $2.50 supplemental fee paid by each student each quarter, while the Student Lobby plans to seek a $1 supplemental fee per student per quarter.

MARSHBURN NAMED ASSISTANT TO THE PRESIDENT

Stan Marshburn, a 1975 Evergreen graduate, has this week been named assistant to the president by Dan Evans. Marshburn, who will assume responsibilities for legislative relations and on-campus governance, is currently employed as a fiscal analyst for the House Ways and Means Committee of the Washington State Legislature. The post, which he has held for the past five years, includes responsibilities for analysis of social service budget issues and agencies and has required frequent oral and written presentations before the House.

The 30-year-old alum also worked as a program analyst for the budget division of the Office of Financial Management after completing his Evergreen degree in economics and political science. In his new post he assumes some of the responsibilities formerly held by newly installed County Commissioner Les Eldridge; the remainder of Eldridge's duties have been assigned to Development Director Sue Washburn.

RUSSELL NAMED ACTING SECURITY CHIEF

Security Lieutenant Gary Russell has been appointed acting chief of Security and Parking on a temporary basis, according to his boss, Ken Jacob, director of Auxiliary Services. Russell, who first joined the college staff in 1972 as a security officer, will remain in his new assignment until, says Jacob, "sometime during Spring Quarter when a new chief will be hired."

Russell has already scheduled several training sessions for security as well as for other campus offices. He will oversee implementation of a volunteer crime watch program within the next few weeks and, later this quarter, plans to ask the campus to complete a questionnaire to help him and others evaluate security services.

Jacob reports other changes have also recently occurred in Security. Three officers --- Gil Cordova, Wally Potter and Larry Savage --- have been temporarily promoted to corporal. "This promotion allows us to better schedule security coverage, especially during evening and weekend hours and helps us overcome some of the problems caused by staff cuts forced by budget reductions," explains Jacob. He invites persons with questions regarding the new security changes to contact Russell at extension 6140.

ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES PLANNING MEETINGS BEGIN WEDNESDAY

A series of weekly meetings devoted to "developing the future of environmental studies at Evergreen" begins Wednesday, January 12 and continues weekly from 10:30 a.m. to noon in room 3033 of LAB I throughout Winter Quarter. Faculty Members Oscar Soule and Richard Cellarius have invited all interested faculty to meet with them to "flesh out details of and staffing for the proposed masters degree program in environmental and energy studies," and to shape undergraduate offerings for 1984-85 and beyond in response to current deliberations and final conclusions by the Long Range Curriculum Planning Disappearing Task Force.

The two intend to "alternate consideration of undergraduate and graduate programs week by week and ultimately to develop a single integrated set of offerings." They urge "the support and involvement of all faculty who will be teaching environmental studies."

WORKSHOP INSTRUCTORS SOUGHT

Part-time instructors are now being sought to teach Spring Quarter Leisure Education workshops. Sandy Greenway, director of the Leisure Ed program, says she's especially looking for persons willing and able to teach non-credit classes in such areas as: sports opportunities for kids and adults; paper-making, sculpture, silkscreen and paper marbling; mushroom and edible plant identification, furniture repair and upholstery.

Deadline for applying to teach in the program, which is sponsored by the Recreation and Athletics Department, is Friday, January 14. Interested potential instructors, who will be paid based on a percentage of their workshop revenue, are encouraged to call Sandy Greenway or Debbie Lutz at 866-6530 weekdays as soon as possible.

TRIBUTE TO JAPAN SLATED NEXT SUNDAY

Japanese dancers and artists will headline a free half-day celebration offering a "Tribute to Japan" Sunday, January 16 at Evergreen. Cosponsored by the Consulate General of Japan in Seattle, the tribute features showings of six Japanese films on loan from the Consulate, slide talks by members of the Olympia Sister City Committee, and a panel discussion by three Evergreen faculty members on the cultural, artistic and industrial "creativity of modern Japan," in addition to an illustrated talk on contemporary Japanese crafts.

Hosted in the Evans Library to celebrate the numerous connections between Evergreen, Olympia, and Japan, the festivities will also include presentation of three traditional Japanese tea ceremonies, and demonstrations of the art of Japanese flower arranging, calligraphy, and origami. Sales of traditional Japanese foods will be offered by members of the Japanese-American Citizens League. A major art exhibit of Sumi prints by Tacoma artist Michi Osaka will remain on display in Gallery Two, and a display of Japanese artifacts will be presented in the Library second floor lobby by members of the Olympia Sister City Committee.

Admission to Evergreen's "Tribute to Japan" is free and open to the public. A complete schedule of events will be available Monday in the Office of College Relations, Library 3114 and at the Information Center.

LINDA ALLEN SINGS SUNDAY

Feminist folksinger Linda Allen brings her interpretations of music "by, for and about women" to Evergreen for an evening concert Sunday, January 9, beginning at 7 o'clock in the Recital Hall of the Communications Building. Allen accompanies herself on guitar, autoharp, dulcimer and spoons as she performs a combination of songs featuring both traditional women's music from the past and lyrics about her contemporaries.

Her concert, sponsored by the Tides of Change production company of Olympia, carries a $3 admission fee. Free on-site childcare will be available, along with an interpreter for persons with hearing impairments. The Recital Hall is wheelchair accessible.

PIANO RECITAL SET FRIDAY

Evergreen alum Richard Knisely will present a piano recital on Friday, January 14, at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall of the Communications Building. Knisely, a 1978 graduate, is currently completing his masters degree in piano performance and composition at Boston University. In the past two years, he has performed frequently in the Boston area, most recently at the Provincetown Arts Association in Massachusetts.

Friday's program will include works of Haydn, Chopin, Debussy, Ravel, and Prokofiev, and is free and open to the public.

EAT TO YOUR HEART'S CONTENT AT FRIDAY'S MEDIEVAL FEAST

Eating with abandon will be the order of the day when 100 lucky participants sit down at the Medieval Feast, to be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, January 14 in room 4300 of the Library.

Billed as "an evening of medieval feasting and entertainments," the event will be done in the tradition of 14th Century European feasts, complete with massive quantities of food prepared medieval-style and strolling minstrels to entertain the busy feasters. Tickets are $12.50 for students and senior citizens and $15 for the general public, and should be purchased soon as only 100 will be sold.

Four courses of food will be served at a leisurely pace for maximum consumption during the three-hour feast.

Highlighting the nearly 20 selections will be such delectable items as farced fungus (stuffed mushrooms), egredouce (sweet and sour beef), roast fish with crustade of eebris (snapper stuffed with greens and nuts), pork-y-roste in bourblier de sanglier (roast pork in boar's tail sauce), and farced byrdies in sauce madame (stuffed gamehens).

"Bawderie and Blisse," a four-member musical group will rove from table to table throughout the evening, performing their repertoire of bawdy songs on the harp, mandolin, and other medieval instruments. Feasters are encouraged to come dressed as knights, ladies, damsels, peasants, and other characters in keeping with the medieval flavor of the occasion.

Tickets for the Medieval Feast must be purchased in advance at the Campus Activities Office, CAB 305 at Evergreen, or at Rainy Day Records, or Yenney's Music Store in Olympia. For more information, call Alisoun Lamb at the Activities Office, 866-6000, ext. 6220.

GEODUCKS HOST WINDJAMMER REGATTA, SATURDAY FILM SPECIAL

The Evergreen sailing team will host seven other schools from around the Northwest in the Windjammer Eliminations Regatta in Olympia on Saturday and Sunday, January 15 and 16. Complementing the weekend competition will be a Saturday evening showing of the film, "The Outer Reaches of Sailing" and other sailing slides and videotapes at the Organic Farmhouse on The Evergreen State College campus.

Evergreen sailing coach Lou Powers expects the University of Washington, Western Washington University, the University of British Columbia, the University of Oregon, and Oregon State University to be among the participants in the Windjammer, which is a qualification regional for the Northwest District of the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Association. Winner of the regatta will advance to the national finals in New Orleans, which coincides with Mardi Gras in February.

Coach Powers is excited about his team's prospects in the upcoming competition. "We won our last Olympia regatta in November," he says "and we should have a similar advantage this time sailing on Budd Inlet - 'our home waters'."

Competition begins at 10 a.m. and runs until mid-afternoon both days. The public is encouraged to attend and will find good viewpoints to watch the race near KGY Radio Station or at West Bay Marina.

The public is also welcome to come out Saturday from 7-10 p.m. for an evening of sailing films and an opportunity to meet the sailors and coaches of the participating teams at the Organic Farmhouse. Highlight of the viewing will be "The Outer Reaches of Sailing," which was filmed on locations in Hawaii, Australia, and San Francisco by Warren Miller of ski movie fame.

Parking is available near the farmhouse at 2712 Lewis Road, or transportation will be provided from Parking Lot B on the main campus where vans will leave for the farm every 15 minutes between 6:30 and 7:15 p.m.

A donation of $3 per person is asked of those who wish to attend the Farmhouse activities. Tickets may be purchased at the door or by making reservations in advance with the Evergreen Recreation Center. For more information, call Sports Information Director Sandy Butler at 866-6000, ext. 6530.

PUBLIC BROADCAST FOUNDATION MOVES TO CAMPUS

The Public Broadcast Foundation moved to campus last month. Executive Director Keith Klovee-Smith defines PBF as a "non-profit corporation dedicated to the enhancement of public broadcasting, both radio and television." Currently, the program funds a project by the Washington Education Network to begin broadcasts of the Washington State Legislature this month. PBF is temporarily housed in room 4105 of the Seminar Building. Klovee-Smith says he's delighted to be on campus and welcomes all questions about his organization (866-2100).

EVERGREENERS IN THE NEWS

Dr. Gail Martin, director of Career Planning and Placement, has been selected as one of four finalists by the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators for the NASPA Dissertation of the Year Award. Entitled "Encounter with Education: The Impact of an Alternative College on Student Development," her paper was written in 1981 while she was studying on leave at Columbia University. It offers a "college impact" study of Evergreen's Founding class (1971-75) based on a content analysis she conducted of the class self evaluations. Her research shows that, unlike most college graduates who say that the most important influence of their college experience was their social lives, Evergreen graduates rate the academic structure of the school itself --- its faculty members, internships and interdisciplinary studies --- as the most important developmental aspect of their collegiate years. Gail says NASPA will announce the winner of the annual award sometime next month.

Faculty member Marilyn Frasca is conducting a three-part Proqoff Intensive Journal Method workshop beginning Saturday, January 15. Her authorized workshop is based on the textbook and program created by Ira Proqoff and includes sessions on "Life Context" January 15 and 16; "Journal Feedback," January 28 and 29, and "Process Meditation," February 25 and 26. Tuition is $160 for all three sessions or $75 for each. Contact Frasca for details at 866-6000, ext. 6043.

Faculty member Susie Strasser continues to draw rave reviews for her book, Never Done: A History of American Housework. In addition to coverage by the New York Times, Ms. Magazine, the Olympian and numerous other publications, her book is reviewed in the most recent edition of The National Enquirer.

Rachel Newman has begun work as a part-time health care associate and Ron Walter has been promoted to chief engineer. Staff resignations have been received from Veteran Affairs coordinator Willie Jackson, and Office Assistant Rita Sammons. Former Assistant to the President/Director of Community Relations Les Eldridge is grinning about more than his new job, which began Monday. Who can resist a smile over the fact that one Eldridge has been replaced by two "burns" --- Sue Washburn and Stan Marshburn (see story, page 3).

Affirmative Action Officer Rebecca Wright will be taking "lots of annual leave and leave without pay" during the next eight weeks to prepare for the Washington Bar Exam. In her absence, student intern Nash Perkins will handle Handicapped Access and Services, and Employee Relations Director Rita Cooper will respond to Affirmative Action questions.

PROVOST SEARCH NARROWS TO FOUR

The Provost Search Disappearing Task Force hopes to begin interviews with four finalists next week. The committee has selected: Evergreen Academic Dean Barbara Smith; Frederick Weaver, dean of the School of Social Science at Hampshire College; Patrick J. Hill, founder and chairman of the Federated Learning Communities at State University of New York - Stony Brook; and William G. Berberet, dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Willamette University.

DTF Secretary Georgina Sherman says the committee hopes the interviews can be arranged within the next week or two, and that a finalist can be selected by the end of the month. If possible, that person will be brought aboard to replace Academic Vice President and Provost Byron Youtz by the end of the current academic year. The DTF plans to meet again Wednesday, January 12 at 10:30 a.m. in Library 2204 and again at 1 p.m. Wednesday in Library 2219.

Questions may be directed to DTF chair Susan Smith.

LEISURE EDUCATION REGISTRATION CONTINUES

Registration for Leisure Education workshops is now in process and ends January 14 at 5 p.m. All registration must be completed in person at the Recreation Office, Room 302. Evening registrations are slated next week: Monday through Thursday, January 10-13, from 5 to 8 p.m. Workshops begin next week and most continue for eight weeks unless otherwise stated. For further information and a complete listing, please contact Debbie Lutz at the Leisure Education office, 866-6000, ext. 6530.
