The major winter quarter dramatic production of "Dark of the Moon" will premiere Wednesday with two performances on The Evergreen State College campus. The play will run through Saturday with performances scheduled at 2 and 8 p.m. daily.

Faculty Member Ainara Wilder is directing the production, which is being produced by students in the Theater and Dramatic Arts academic group contract. The play tells the story of the Ballad of Barbara Allen --- a very moving tale of a witch boy who wants to become human so he can marry Barbara. It involves all aspects of drama, including dance and song.

The production will be staged on the fourth floor of the Evans Library. Admission is free and the public is invited.
