Please broadcast the following as a public service announcement as often as possible between December 7 and 14:

A study group at The Evergreen State College is seeking volunteers to help determine how families will react to severe energy cutbacks. Participating families will spend one month living within strict energy limitations. Their experiences may provide the key to helping us all adjust to the shortages of the future.

Interested? Call Dr. Ted Gerstl, The Evergreen State College, 866-6638.
