Faculty Covenant

We agree to collaborate in the teaching of this program in such a way as to enrich our students' understanding of the material and their ability to express that understanding both orally and in writing. We will prepare lectures, lead book seminars, teach writing skills, and participate in faculty seminars. We will discuss and evaluate our differing views on both the content of the material and the best ways to teach it in a framework of mutual respect and support.

Our respect for each other will be matched by our respect for the rights and needs of our students. We will give them constructive criticism, help them with their reading and writing and give them periodic evaluations of their progress. In addition to our professional responsibilities spelled out in the faculty handbook, we affirm that we will not discriminate on the basis of race or sex or engage in a sexual relationship with any of our students.
